Gen. Lahousen Says Russians Were Not Considered Prisoners Of War

Goering Rages 'Lynch That Traitor' As Intelligence Officer Testifies

NUERNBERG, Nov. 30—A high German intelligence officer told the war crimes tribunal today that the German army was ordered to kill all Russian commissars and all captured Russian soldiers who could be identified as Communists.

Maj. Gen. Erwin Lahousen, No. 2 man in the German army counter-intelligence corps under Admiral Wilhelm Canaris, testified on the witness stand that the Russians were not to be considered prisoners of war.

He quoted an order by Hermann Reinecke that the Soviet-German war was a showdown of two political philosophies. The Red army was considered an ideological enemy and should be treated as such.

"The 20 war crimes defendants were visibly moved and angered by Lahousen's testimony and at the luncheon recess Hermann Goering raged: "Lynch that traitor. That's one guy we forgot on July 20, 1944, (date of the attempted assassination of Hitler)."

Goering said he wanted to testify himself this afternoon. "When I do," he snorted, "I'll tell him myself that we overlooked one of the worst traitors who ever lived."

Joachim von Ribbentrop was shaken. He kept muttering over and over again to Goering and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel: "What shall I do? What shall I do?"

Lahousen testified that Reinecke ordered that Russian prisoners be treated entirely differently from Allied prisoners. Guards at Russian camps were equipped with whips and authorized to kill the Russians at the slightest excuse. Orders were given to brand the Russians.

Lahousen, first witness to be called by the prosecution, also revealed that a small inner group of the intelligence service plotted to kill Adolf Hitler as far back as 1938. He said that many of the men around Canaris were executed or committed suicide after the failure of the July, 1944, plot against Hitler.

Canaris, whom Lahousen held in great esteem, was believed executed by the Gestapo early this year for plotting against Hitler.

Canaris, he revealed, had long been secretly at odds with the Nazis and even before Lahousen left Austria in 1938 to join the

Negotiations Resumed In G-M Strike; Ford Workers Reject Plans

Negotiations were renewed in the nationwide General Motors strike today but hopes for ending the Ford of Canada dispute were dashed when striking CIO auto workers turned down a government-sponsored peace proposal.

For the first time since the coast-to-coast walkout was called 10 days ago, the United Automobile Workers (CIO) resumed collective bargaining with General Motors officials in Detroit. The union was scheduled to answer company charges of illegal picketing.

Hope for settling the work stoppage, involving 225,000 GM employees, was heightened further by a company announcement that it would meet with federal conciliators in Washington next week.

Across the border from the UAW's Detroit stronghold, strikers rejected a dominion plan to end a strike at Ford of Canada's Windsor, Ont., plant, now in its 80th day.

By a close, secret vote, some 7,000 workers rejected an arbitration proposal submitted by Canadian Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell and backed by the policy committee of the union.

In other labor developments, Montgomery Ward & Co. granted a wage increase to non-union Chicago workers and announced it would be "glad" to extend the increase to CIO employees, engaged in a weeklong demonstration walkout.

Union spokesmen hailed the offer as proof of the effectiveness of (Continued on Page Two)

UAW PRESIDENT URGES JOBLESS PAY TO STRIKERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—President R. J. Thomas of the United Auto Workers (CIO) urged federal and state governments today to provide unemployment compensation for veterans thrown out of work by "the General Motors Corp. sit-down strike against collective bargaining."

In a statement released to the press here, Thomas called on congress, the veterans administration and state legislatures to "take steps" to grant benefits to some 50,000 union veterans who "may be ruled ineligible for unemployment benefits under the G. I. bill of rights."

He said striking workers in four states are entitled to unemployment pay after a waiting period. But veterans in those states, having no accumulated earnings, will not be eligible and hence "will be worse off than non-veterans," Thomas added.

He declared that veterans in other auto plants than General Motors are threatened with unemployment because "General Motors is making every effort to shut down the entire industry, even if it means putting many other thousands of veterans and their families out into the cold."

SCIENTIST SAYS RUSSIAN ATOM MAKING NEAR

Dr. Langmuir Says Army Tipped Soviets About American Bombs

READY IN THREE YEARS

Reds Can Make Atomic Bombs Faster Than U. S. When They Start Is Claim

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—A prominent scientist, predicting that Russia can start atom bomb production in about three years, told congress today that over-zealous Army security relations tipped the Soviets last June to our secret manufacture of atomic weapons.

Dr. Irving Langmuir, associate director of research for General Electric company, said last minute cancellation of passports of a group of American and British physicists headed for a scientific gathering in Moscow "resulted in giving to the Russians the very information which the Army most wished to keep from them."

He said the Russian embassy here "of course" knew that the American physicists had not been permitted to attend and that cancellation of the British passports was given wide publicity in the British press.

"Any sensible Russian scientist knowing of these facts would have believed that we were developing an atomic bomb and were keeping it secret from the Russians," he said.

Once Russia starts making atomic bombs, a distinct possibility in about three years, she may very likely be able to turn them out faster than the United States because of her tremendous resources. Langmuir told the senate's special committee on atomic energy.

He said he had never heard an official explanation for cancelling the passports of the Moscow-bound scientists. But he said he had heard "the opinion expressed that this action must have been taken at the request of the American government because no one outside the American Army could be so stupid."

The scientists were going to attend the 220th anniversary celebration of the Russian Academy of Science. Their change of plans was announced in the British press (Continued on Page Two)

UNO COMMISSION DOES NOTHING IN FIRST WEEK

LONDON, Nov. 30—The United Nations preparatory commission neared the end of its first week of work today with decisions still lacking on any major issues.

But three top issues come up in technical committees again with some prospect of progress rather than continued elaboration of old differences. They are: shall the commission prepare detailed arrangements for a security council; shall a temporary trusteeship committee be created to serve until some territories are placed under the proposed trusteeship system; the ever-present dispute over a permanent site.

The last meeting of the security council committee bogged down in a parliamentary procedure dispute but today's session was expected to get to the meat of the issue.

YAMASHITA CONTINUES DENIAL OF SLAUGHTERS

MANILA, Nov. 30—Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita looked today at a prosecution map marking the sites where 60,000 Filipinos were slaughtered and denied doggedly that he ever heard of any of the killings.

Chief Prosecutor Maj. Robert M. Kerr of Portland, Ore., hammering at the war crimes defendant in a second day of cross examination, asked Yamashita to examine wall maps with many dots showing where atrocities occurred.

More Than Million War Veterans To Be Homeless In 1946, NHA Predicts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Official concern over the shortage of homes for returning servicemen mounted today with a National Housing Agency prediction that 1,100,000 veterans will be homeless in 1946.

A Veterans Administration official said the housing situation was "chaotic."

Rep. Andrew J. Biemiller, D., Wis., warned in a house speech that unless relief is provided "we will have a real eruption from our veterans that will make the bonus marches look very tame in comparison."

NHA's outlook, based on national surveys, was pessimistic. What surprises many veterans was that homes were not plentiful anywhere, even in small towns. No vacancies was the rule everywhere.

One desperate GI asked the Veterans Administration yesterday to approve a home loan on a trailer. Reluctantly, VA turned him down. They said a trailer was not real estate within the meaning of the GI bill.

Others by the thousands are pouring their protests into VA offices. They get nothing but sympathy, and the phone number of NHA. Housing is not in VA's jurisdiction.

The Army said hundreds of men had changed their tunes after discharge when they found no place to live and had signed for another hitch.

One congressman after another reported critical local shortages. Together they painted a national picture of ex-servicemen living in tents, chicken coops, garages, filling stations and even in automobiles.

Most of the homeless appeared to have doubled up with relatives. (Continued on Page Two)

Representative Also Asks Colonel Commission Be Restored To 'Lindy'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Rep. Noah M. Mason, R., Ill., proposed the distinguished service medal today for Charles A. Lindbergh for "risking his life" to demonstrate new techniques to Army pilots.

He also asked that the famed "Lone Eagle" be restored the reserve colonel's commission he was "forced" to give up by the late President Roosevelt.

Mason coupled his recommendation with a report that Lindbergh shot down not one but "several" Japanese planes while testing Army planes in combat missions in his capacity as a civilian technician. He did not reveal the source of his information.

The first disclosure of Lindbergh's "combat" record was made yesterday in a dispatch by (Continued on Page Two)

HEAVY SNOWS SNARL TRAFFIC IN THE EAST

Snow snarled traffic and communications today from New England to Pennsylvania, but the weather bureau said the storm which has swept the east coast for two days would end by tonight.

Snowfalls ranging from an average of six inches in New England to two inches in western New York and Pennsylvania were predicted before tonight. The temperature was not expected to go above 35 degrees today. Clear skies were predicted for tomorrow.

The storm has caused at least eight deaths and large property damage. Four of the deaths were in the New York metropolitan area and the others in upstate New York.

A housemaid was killed at Lakewood, N. J. when wind toppled a chimney through the roof of the room in which she was sleeping. A brakeman was blown from a car to the tracks in the Jersey City railroad yards. Two traffic deaths were listed in New York.

ATOM CAR TEST IS SABOTAGED

English Inventor Says Vital Parts Broken; Invention Cost 'About $10'

LONDON, Nov. 30—If somebody will replace his copper pipe and vacuum tube, inventor J. W. Wilson said today, he's ready to turn the first atomic automobile loose on the public.

He promises it will go three times as fast as normal automobiles, splitting atoms in all directions at a cost of 20 cents every 1,000 miles. It won't bother about gasoline.

The grey haired doctor wanted to show off all nine horsepower of his "Atocar" yesterday for Emmanuel Shinnell, who as minister of fuel and power must take the risk of finding out about such things.

But, claimed Wilson, somebody sabotaged the test. He told correspondents that the car was parked outside his downtown London office three hours before the scheduled test, when somebody smashed the essential parts of the "atomic driving unit."

He charged a malicious attack "by people with sinister motives." Somebody suggested it was pedestrians.

Shinnell, undaunted, said he (Continued on Page Two)

SCIENTISTS TO BE DEFERRED BY DRAFT BOARDS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—To meet the nation's need for more scientists in an increasingly technical age, selective service today requested local draft boards to defer engineering and science students, teachers and research workers.

The request was made in a memorandum to local boards from national draft headquarters here. It was prepared by a reconversion working committee headed by Reconversion Director John W. Snyder.

The purpose of the new deferment program, according to selective service, is "to develop fully the technical and scientific skills which have been acquired and to provide adequate teaching facilities for returning veterans who desire to resume their studies in these fields."

The committee pointed out that is in the "long range national interest" to have men with high technical and scientific qualifications back on the campus.

It was made clear in the memorandum that final decision on deferments will be left to the local boards. Selective service said, however, that local boards "are requested to give serious consideration" to the occupational deferment of draft registrants specified in the letter.

'MAGIC' DETAILS GIVEN

Former Intelligence Head On Stand Again As Pearl Harbor Probe Goes On

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—The congressional Pearl Harbor investigation was called to order by Chairman Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., at 10:01 a. m. today.

Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, head of army intelligence at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack, returned to testify.

Assistant Committee Counsel Gerhard A. Gesell, questioning Miles, brought out this testimony: 1. For many months before Pearl Harbor, G-2 (Army Intelligence) loaned language experts, one at a time to signal corps decoding forces, and furnished names of potential de-coders.

2. Telegraphic Japanese is a "language within a language," which very few people "even now" can translate.

3. Nisei could have done the work, but "magic" personnel was restricted to American citizens "whom we knew all about."

The general gave these facts in an effort to explain in more detail why many illuminating Japanese "magic" messages, intercepted before Pearl Harbor, were not decoded for days after the attack.

Miles emphasized that in 1941 the military were concentrating principally on defeating Germany and on western hemisphere defense.

Listening intently were Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, naval and Army commanders at Hawaii at the time of the attack. Miles testified that the fact that the United States had broken the Japanese code was a secret so closely guarded that no overseas commanders were allowed to know of it or even see any of the messages which showed Japan's warlike preparations.

Q. The same security regulations which forbade sending texts of the "magic" messages to (Continued on Page Two)

BRITISH READY TO ACCEPT NEW YUGOSLAV SETUP

LONDON, Nov. 30—An official spokesman indicated today that the British government was ready to accept at face value a Belgrade proclamation of a Yugoslav republic which reduced the youthful King Peter to plain Peter Karageorgevitch.

A British spokesman made it evident that the government was ready to cut loose the deposed king, who has been hiding strongly for British and American support in the months that it became progressively apparent that he was losing out in Yugoslavia.

"There is no question here but that the constituent assembly is broadly representative in Yugoslavia," the spokesman said. "You may draw your own conclusion."

He said London had not yet received official notification of the proclamation of a republic by the constituent assembly in Belgrade yesterday. The question of British recognition of the Yugoslav government will not arise again, having been settled once, the commentator said.

Gen. Lahousen Says Russians

Prisoners Of War

German high command he had received orders from Canaris not to permit any Nazis to obtain a high position.

Lahousen refreshed his memory from Canaris' diary which he said the admiral kept for the purpose "of informing Germany and the world how those people were guilty who were guiding the people."

He said that Canaris had expressed serious concern over the bombardment of Warsaw and had warned Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel that serious repercussions in the world were likely. Keitel told him, Lahousen said, that the measure had already been agreed upon by Adolf Hitler and Hermann Goering.

He said Canaris had also warned strongly against Nazi plans for exterminating Polish groups and had said to Keitel "the world at some time will make the armed forces under whose eyes these events took place responsible for them."

Keitel, said Lahousen, "replied that Hitler had decided on these policies and had made it known that if the armed forces did not wish to participate they would be carried out by the SS and the security police."

John Amen, assistant prosecutor, said: "For the record what were those measures Keitel told you had been agreed on?"

Lahousen replied: "The bombardment of Warsaw and the shooting of specified categories in Poland."

Amen: "What were those categories?"

Lahousen: "Polish intellectuals, nobility, clergy and naturally, the Jews."

The conversation between Canaris and Keitel occurred on Hitler's special train Sept. 12, 1939, shortly before the fall of Warsaw.

Canaris also talked with Joachim von Ribbentrop, Lahousen said, who told him that a directive had been issued to arrange for Ukrainian groups to rise against the Poles in the Polish Ukraine and exterminate both Poles and Jews.

Ribbentrop told Canaris, the witness said, the uprising must be so arranged that all the Polish houses in the region were burned down.

"Some time in August, 1939," Lahousen said, "the counter-intelligence section were ordered to hand over Polish uniforms and identification tags to Heinrich Himmler. I don't know where the order originated but I believe it was with Himmler. The uniforms were prepared and a man from the SS or the SD came and got them."

Lahousen said that when the first bulletins about Polish attacks on German villages were published—the pretext Hitler used for attacking the Poles—"it became clear what the uniforms had been used for."

He said that prisoners had been taken from concentration camps, dressed in Polish uniforms and directed to attack the Glatz radio station.

Canaris, Lahousen said, told him that Keitel came to him in 1940 after the fall of France and tried to persuade him that it was necessary to "eliminate" Gen. Maxime Weygand, then in charge of French North Africa, because it was feared that he might become a rallying point for the French.

Canaris and Lahousen, he said, felt that this would be "murder" and resolved that if the order was given it would not be carried out.

Amen asked Lahousen what he had told Keitel about the matter.

"I don't remember exactly what I told him," he said, "but I certainly didn't tell him the order wouldn't be executed or I wouldn't be sitting here today."

Goering nodded his head vigorously, as if to say "you certainly wouldn't."

SIDNEY FOUNDRY CLOSED AFTER WORKERS STRIKE

SIDNEY, O., Nov. 30.—Directors and stockholders of the Sidney Grain Machinery company today had voted to close the foundry here as a result of a two-week old strike.

The action was taken in a meeting here yesterday. Carl F. Berger, president and general manager of the company, said he considered the closing of the foundry had ended the labor dispute, and requested the union to withdraw its pickets.

Discussions between the company, which has been here about 75 years, and the Moulders and Foundry Workers Union (AFL) began last July. The strike has been in progress since November 12.

the strike which they said had crippled operations in Ward properties in 19 cities. Chicago union leaders said they would give "serious consideration" to the increase, raising minimum wages to 60 cents an hour.

The Hudson Motor company sent home 2,500 from its Detroit plants last night, boosting the number of U. S. workers idle in strikes and shutdowns to approximately 616,000. Hudson spokesmen said the layoffs would continue until Dec. 5 because of a lack of parts from strikebound supplier firms.

Signs of possible compromise in the paralyzing General Motors dispute came yesterday after President Truman told reporters he would like to see the disputants get together for a discussion of their differences.

General Motors President C. E. Wilson said Vice President Harry W. Anderson would meet with federal labor officials in Washington next week and invited Conciliation Service Director Edgar L. Warren to confer with him in Detroit.

At the same time, the GM president suggested that the UAW modify its demands for a 30-per cent wage increase, reminding the union that the company had submitted three counterproposals prior to the strike.

Union officials replied that they would modify their demands only if the company could prove by its books that it was unable to grant 30 per cent higher wages without raising prices. The company consistently has maintained that its ability to pay has nothing to do with a fair wage.

Meanwhile, a back-to-work movement gained momentum among striking AFL workers in the Pacific Northwest. Several Oregon locals agreed to a 15-cent-an-hour compromise raise yesterday. Strike leaders predicted the mills, idle nearly 10 weeks, all would be operating within a week.

37TH WELCOMING TRIP OFF AFTER FUNDS DENIED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30.—Adjutant General D. F. Pancoast said here today that the proposed trip by a committee of Ohio officials to meet Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, commanding general of the 37th division, when he arrives in San Francisco, was definitely off because of the attitude of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

"As far as I am concerned the whole plan is forgotten," said Pancoast, who was to have been a member of the committee.

Ferguson said yesterday he would not approve expense vouchers for the trip, first because he did not think it would be legal, and second, because he did not see why Ohio should pay to welcome home one general when it sent no one to welcome home privates from Ohio.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche opened the way to payment of vouchers for expenses of the state pension program commission by making a new appointment to that body.

Ferguson had refused payment because all three of the governor's appointees on the nine-man commission were Republicans, contrary to law.

Nelson S. Talbot, Dayton, resigned last Friday, and the governor appointed Alfred A. Benesch in his place today. Benesch was state commerce director under the Davey administration, and is an unquestioned Democrat.

troops, the Soviet agency reported. Other airborne troops are to land at Mukden.

For the first time, Tass reported that the Russians had refused Nationalist troops permission to land at Dairen because it is "a commercial port destined for transportation of goods, not troops."

The China Times, reporting that Chinese-Russian negotiations had "turned for the better," said Chinese troops were scheduled to proceed to Manchuria by air and sea.

It said the troop movement was scheduled to start within a week. Chinese personnel for the Chinese-Russian joint railways was reported to have flown to Changchun from Peiping two days ago.

The Times said the Chinese government would first take over civil administrations while that of industries would be postponed until final decisions in the Chinese-Russian negotiations.

DSM PROPOSED FOR LINDBERGH

United Press Staff Correspondent William B. Dickinson, recently returned from the Pacific.

Mason followed up publication of Dickinson's dispatch by inserting in the congressional record a statement proposing that Lindbergh get the distinguished service award and be restored his commission.

Lindbergh resigned his air corps reserve colonelcy April 28, 1941 after Mr. Roosevelt had denounced his isolationist views on world affairs and classified the flier as a defeatist and an appeaser. Lindbergh said that since Mr. Roosevelt, as his commander in chief, had questioned his loyalty, he had no choice but to resign.

Mason's statement said of Lindbergh: "In demonstration test flights—as technical civilian adviser to our fighting forces—he actually shot down several enemy planes, all, of course, off the record because he was a civilian and non-combatant."

"Not only that but he demonstrated what American bombers could do. On one test he piloted a bomber loaded with a bomb load three times as heavy as the regular bomb-load and took off after a much shorter run than our regular bomber pilots thought safe even with a normal bombload."

"The greatest benefits from peace-time uses of atomic energy, he continued, will be in the field of biology, chemistry and physics rather than any direct scientific application. He predicted it would give scientists knowledge of the prevention and cure of cancer."

CEILING PRICES ON COTTON ITEMS RAISED BY OPA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The OPA today raised manufacturers' ceiling prices on lower-priced cotton bedspreads, tablecloths, napkins and woven decorative fabrics in an effort to increase production of lower priced goods.

Consumers will not feel the increase to any great extent, OPA said, because retailers can absorb at least part of the increases. On the other hand, it said, the public will benefit by the return of less expensive goods.

The ceiling increases apply to: All items in the lower half of any manufacturer's price line.

All items made at or below certain popular prices at the mill level—$1.50 to $2.75 in the case of bedspreads, 40 to 50 cents a square yard for napery and 55 cents for 36-inch material to $1.35 for 54-inch material in the case of decorative fabrics.

but never published here, presumably because of Army security regulations.

Langmuir said he himself made the trip to Moscow but that just before he departed, two Army officers asked him not to go. He "disapproved" and took the matter to the state department, he said and was finally allowed to proceed when the "war department was made to realize how little I knew of the atomic energy project."

Langmuir figured slightly in early atomic bomb developments, he said. Other Americans were not permitted to go.

Langmuir said possession of the atom bomb formula gave this country a feeling of security, but was giving Russia and other have-not nations a feeling of insecurity that threatened to start a world race in atomic armament. He urged immediate and direct consultation with Russia to head off such a development.

The Nov. 15 declaration by President Truman and Prime Ministers Attlee and Mackenzie King is a most constructive program aiming at this world control of atomic energy," Langmuir said.

"I hope that the governments of the United States, Britain and Canada make immediate contacts with the Russian government to secure, if possible, their tentative agreement instead of replying solely on the more cumbersome machinery of the United Nations organization."

Langmuir said the Russians may surpass the United States in the manufacture of atomic bombs because of (1) their larger population; (2) their "remarkable system of incentives" which is increasing industrial efficiency; (3) the absence of unemployment and strikes; (4) their deep appreciation of pure and applied science; (5) their planned scientific program, more extensive than any contemplated by the United States.

He said ability to harness atomic energy eliminated any danger from exhaustion of coal and oil reserves but he felt this "would not be important for a century or so."

The greatest benefits from peace-time uses of atomic energy, he continued, will be in the field of biology, chemistry and physics rather than any direct scientific application. He predicted it would give scientists knowledge of the prevention and cure of cancer.

A truck tractor, stolen from the Strawser freight lines, while it was parked in Circleville, has been recovered in Portsmouth by Chief of Police W. H. McCrady and returned to Circleville. A car stolen from Charles Morris of Circleville has also been recovered at Portsmouth, Chief McCrady said. Every Reffitt is being held, charged with the theft of the truck tractor.

Biemiller, more pessimistic than NHA, said almost 2,000,000 servicemen would be forced to this within the next 12 months.

While congress debated appropriation of $24,500,000 to move NHA's surplus housing, NHA pictured the veteran's prospects this way:

Of NHA's $320,000 temporary housing units built to house war workers, around 100,000 are expected to become vacant in a reasonable time. So far 32 cities have contracted to use some of this housing, but their total of 2,000 units is not a drop in the bucket.

Also, several thousand units—mostly trailers—have been made available to 97 colleges for housing GI scholars. (The American council on education said thousands of veterans can't go to school for lack of a place to live.)

Scores of other cities want NHA temporary units. However, most communities want the federal government to foot the bill for transport. So far NHA doesn't have this much money.

In other steps NHA has given the veteran blanket priority in all federally-controlled housing. That covers about 656,000 dwelling units—not near enough if every one was vacated.

"The agency has written 400 mayors and all governors, asking that local groups be set up to assure veterans preference in private housing. In addition it has asked local housing authorities operating 200,000 residence units built with federal aid to give first chance at vacancies to veterans."

proaches to sound development for the future. Certainly no one service should be given a monopoly on the use of the airplane, of guided missiles, or of any other weapon or technical device which may be required for the effective performance of the functions of another service."

Meanwhile, the capital heard reports that President Truman was planning to send his promised merger message to congress sometime during the first week in December, and that when he did it would recommend complete unification of the nation's armed forces. Sherman said he felt unification of "operational" command was essential but that merger of "administrative" command was unnecessary.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. BENSONHAVER

Minnie Etta Bensonhaver, 77, wife of Andrew Bensonhaver, died at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at her home at 210 Logan street of complications of a lengthy illness.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the First United Brethren church of which she was a member, the Rev. Carl Wilson and the Rev. George Smith, officiating. The body will be taken to the home where friends may call Saturday and Sunday. Burial will be in Hitler-Ludwig by the Defenbaugh company.

She was born in Hocking county, the daughter of Elijah and Catharine Campbell White. Besides her husband, she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Clarence Merz, 156½ West Main street; two grand daughters, Mrs. Manley Smith and Mrs. Lewis Lockard, both of West Main street, and one brother, Donald White, South Scioto street.

LOWDEN FUNERAL

Funeral services were conducted in Cambridge, Wednesday for John Lowden, former manager of the Stuffer's store here who died unexpectedly at his home there Monday night.

Mr. Lowden left Circleville about 8 years ago to become partner in the Davis store at Cambridge. Besides his wife he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Eric Henderson.

FAIR BOARD MEETS

The Pickaway county fair board was scheduled to meet in the Betz restaurant Friday noon to discuss plans for purchasing surplus government metal buildings for use at the fair grounds. Cost of the steel buildings would be about $2500 each.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED

A suit for divorce has been filed in common pleas court by George Monroe Smith against Myrtle Louise Smith, a minor, charging gross neglect. They were married December 31, 1942, and there is one child.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Application for marriage license has been made in probate court by Nelson Lape, 33, discharged veteran and clerk at Guy Pettit's appliance store, and Luella May Baxter, stenographer, of Circleville.

FIRST WITNESS AT WAR CRIMES TRIAL IS HEARD

Gen. Lahousen Says Russians Were Not Considered Prisoners Of War

German high command he had received orders from Canaris not to permit any Nazis to obtain a high position.

Lahousen refreshed his memory from Canaris' diary which he said the admiral kept for the purpose of "informing Germany and the world how those people were guilty who were guiding the people."

He said that Canaris had expressed serious concern over the bombardment of Warsaw and had warned Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel that serious repercussions in the world were likely. Keitel told him, Lahousen said, that the measure had already been agreed upon by Adolf Hitler and Hermann Goering.

He said Canaris had also warned strongly against Nazi plans for exterminating Polish groups and had said to Keitel "the world at some time will make the armed forces under whose eyes these events took place responsible for them."

Keitel, said Lahousen, "replied that Hitler had decided on these policies and had made it known that if the armed forces did not wish to participate they would be carried out by the SS and the security police."

John Amen, assistant prosecutor, said: "For the record what were those measures Keitel told you had been agreed on?"

Lahousen replied: "The bombardment of Warsaw and the shooting of specified categories in Poland."

Amen: "What were those categories?"

Lahousen: "Polish intellectuals, nobility, clergy and naturally, the Jews."

The conversation between Canaris and Keitel occurred on Hitler's special train Sept. 12, 1939, shortly before the fall of Warsaw.

Canaris also talked with Joachim von Ribbentrop, Lahousen said, who told him that a directive had been issued to arrange for Ukrainian groups to rise against the Poles in the Polish Ukraine and exterminate both Poles and Jews.

Ribbentrop told Canaris, the witness said, the uprising must be so arranged that all the Polish houses in the region were burned down.

"Some time in August, 1939," Lahousen said, "the counter-intelligence section were ordered to hand over Polish uniforms and identification tags to Heinrich Himmler. I don't know where the order originated but I believe it was with Himmler. The uniforms were prepared and a man from the SS or the SD came and got them."

Lahousen said that when the first bulletins about Polish attacks on German villages were published—the pretext Hitler used for attacking the Poles—"it became clear what the uniforms had been used for."

He said that prisoners had been taken from concentration camps, dressed in Polish uniforms and directed to attack the Glatz radio station.

Canaris, Lahousen said, told him that Keitel came to him in 1940 after the fall of France and tried to persuade him that it was necessary to "eliminate" Gen. Maxime Weygand, then in charge of French North Africa, because it was feared that he might become a rallying point for the French.

Canaris and Lahousen, he said, felt that this would be "murder" and resolved that if the order was given it would not be carried out.

Amen asked Lahousen what he had told Keitel about the matter.

"I don't remember exactly what I told him," he said, "but I certainly didn't tell him the order wouldn't be executed or I wouldn't be sitting here today."

Goering nodded his head vigorously, as if to say "you certainly wouldn't."

SIDNEY FOUNDRY CLOSED AFTER WORKERS STRIKE

SIDNEY, O., Nov. 30.—Directors and stockholders of the Sidney Grain Machinery company today had voted to close the foundry here as a result of a two-week old strike.

The action was taken in a meeting here yesterday. Carl F. Berger, president and general manager of the company, said he considered the closing of the foundry had ended the labor dispute, and requested the union to withdraw its pickets.

Discussions between the company, which has been here about 75 years, and the Moulders and Foundry Workers Union (AFL) began last July. The strike has been in progress since November 12.

MEMORIAL PLANNED

the strike which they said had crippled operations in Ward properties in 19 cities. Chicago union leaders said they would give "serious consideration" to the increase, raising minimum wages to 60 cents an hour.

The Hudson Motor company sent home 2,500 from its Detroit plants last night, boosting the number of U. S. workers idle in strikes and shutdowns to approximately 616,000. Hudson spokesmen said the layoffs would continue until Dec. 5 because of a lack of parts from strikebound supplier firms.

Signs of possible compromise in the paralyzing General Motors dispute came yesterday after President Truman told reporters he would like to see the disputants get together for a discussion of their differences.

General Motors President C. E. Wilson said Vice President Harry W. Anderson would meet with federal labor officials in Washington next week and invited Conciliation Service Director Edgar L. Warren to confer with him in Detroit.

At the same time, the GM president suggested that the UAW modify its demands for a 30-per cent wage increase, reminding the union that the company had submitted three counterproposals prior to the strike.

Union officials replied that they would modify their demands only if the company could prove by its books that it was unable to grant 30 per cent higher wages without raising prices. The company consistently has maintained that its ability to pay has nothing to do with a fair wage.

Meanwhile, a back-to-work movement gained momentum among striking AFL lumber workers in the Pacific Northwest. Several Oregon locals agreed to a 15-cent-an-hour compromise raise yesterday. Strike leaders predicted the mills, idle nearly 10 weeks, all would be operating within a week.

37TH WELCOMING TRIP OFF AFTER FUNDS DENIED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30.—Adjutant General D. F. Pancoast said here today that the proposed trip by a committee of Ohio officials to meet Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, commanding general of the 37th division, when he arrives in San Francisco, was definitely off because of the attitude of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

"As far as I am concerned the whole plan is forgotten," said Pancoast, who was to have been a member of the committee.

Ferguson said yesterday he would not approve expense vouchers for the trip, first because he did not think it would be legal, and second, because he did not see why Ohio should pay to welcome home one general when it sent no one to welcome home privates from Ohio.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche opened the way to payment of vouchers for expenses of the state pension program commission by making a new appointment to that body.

Ferguson had refused payment because all three of the governor's appointees on the nine-man commission were Republicans, contrary to law.

Nelson S. Talbot, Dayton, resigned last Friday, and the governor appointed Alfred A. Benesch in his place today. Benesch was state commerce director under the Davey administration, and is an unquestioned Democrat.

SCIENTIST SAYS RUSSIAN ATOM MAKING NEAR

Dr. Langmuir Says Army Tipped Soviets About American Bombs

but never published here, presumably because of Army security regulations.

Langmuir said he himself made the trip to Moscow but that just before he departed, two Army officers asked him not to go. He "disapproved" and took the matter to the state department, he said and was finally allowed to proceed when the "war department was made to realize how little I knew of the atomic energy project." Langmuir figured slightly in early atomic bomb developments, he said. Other Americans were not permitted to go.

Langmuir said possession of the atom bomb formula gave this country a feeling of security, but was giving Russia and other have-not nations a feeling of insecurity that threatened to start a world race in atomic armament. He urged immediate and direct consultation with Russia to head off such a development.

The Nov. 15 declaration by President Truman and Prime Ministers Attlee and Mackenzie King is a most constructive program aiming at this world control of atomic energy," Langmuir said.

"I hope that the governments of the United States, Britain and Canada make immediate contacts with the Russian government to secure, if possible, their tentative agreement instead of relying solely on the more cumbersome machinery of the United Nations organization."

Langmuir said the Russians may surpass the United States in the manufacture of atomic bombs because of (1) their larger population; (2) their "remarkable system of incentives" which is increasing industrial efficiency; (3) the absence of unemployment and strikes; (4) their deep appreciation of pure and applied science; (5) their planned scientific program, more extensive than any contemplated by the United States.

He said ability to harness atomic energy eliminated any danger from exhaustion of coal and oil reserves but he felt this "would not be important for a century or so."

The greatest benefits from peaceful uses of atomic energy, he continued, will be in the field of biology, chemistry and physics rather than any direct scientific application. He predicted it would give scientists knowledge of the prevention and cure of cancer.

ARMY AND NAVY RESUME BITTER FEUD SATURDAY

Dope Sheets Can Be Thrown Away As Service Teams Meet In Classic

BY LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—When dusk settles Saturday over the garbage dump section of south Philadelphia the only figures that are going to count are those on the scoreboard of municipal stadium.

Past performances, comparative figures and all other dope sheets can be thrown away for the only thing that will matter to the football world in general and Army and Navy in particular is that final score.

According to all indications that figure in pre-game predictions, it should favor Army—anywhere from three touchdowns up. But that isn't reckoning with the fighting spirit that often lifts an underdog team to upset favorites.

Against the five common opponents they met—Villanova, Duke, Michigan, Notre Dame and Pennsylvania—Army scored 76 first downs against 56 to Navy; gained 1,792 yards rushing against Navy's 653; covered 663 yards with passes against Navy's 503.

Taken against all opponents this season—Army met the Personnel Distribution Center of Louisville, the Melville Torpedo Boat eleven and Wake Forest in addition to the common opponents while Navy faced stronger eleventh in Georgia Tech, Penn State and Wisconsin—Army was even farther out in front offensively.

Army made 112 first downs to Navy's 96; gained 3,019 yards by rushing against Navy's 1,458 and gained 408 yards passing against Navy's 782.

With Arnold Tucker and Glenn Davis sharing the throwing, Army has completed 47 passes of 91 attempts for an average of .516. Navy, with Bruce Smith and Hunchy Hoernschemeyer doing most of the throwing, completed 58 of 122 for an average of .475.

The statistics give Navy some defensive edges, but the figures do not give a true picture for most of the ground gained against Army has been against the second and third teams—after the first team had safely put the game in the bag.

The Middles permitted their eight opponents only 63 first downs against 73 for Army. On the other hand, Navy permitted its opponents a total of 922 yards on the ground while Army allowed only 614. Navy's defense against passing, however, made a better record than Army's.

The eight teams tried 131 passes against Navy, completed 37 of them for 528 yards while against Army, 114 passes were attempted and 64 completed for 713 yards. That gives Navy's opponents only a .282 completion record against 444 for Army. But again—most of the passes made against Army came when the first team was on the sidelines.

One thing which could hurt Navy Saturday is fumbling. The Middles have averaged five fumbles a game—40 against the eight teams—and recovered less than two of them in each contest. Army has fumbled only 29 times, and 13 of those miscues were recovered.

5 CAGE GAMES TO BE PLAYED FRIDAY NIGHT

CHS Entertains Lancaster While County League Resumes Action

Basketball takes the spotlight at Circleville, Williamsport, New Holland, Walnut township and Pickaway township Friday night. In Circleville the CHS Tigers will open the 1945-46 by entertaining Lancaster's Golden Gales. Reserves will play at 7:15 p. m. with the varsity contest set for 8:15 p. m.

Four county league games will be played. Deercreek will enter-

GAME POSTPONED
Basketball game scheduled between Salt Creek and Monroe for Friday night has been postponed due to illness of half of the Salt Creek team with flu. Superintendent H. A. Strous has reported. Nineteen per cent of the school's students are absent, but the flu seems to have hit the team heaviest, Mr. Strous said.

Main Darby at Williamsport; Walnut will be host to Perry township; Jackson will visit at New Holland and Washington goes to Pickaway.

At Circleville's Roll and Bowl two "green" teams will clash. Coach John Daugherty's CHS five will include only one regular starter from last season. Coach Anthony Martin has the same problem at Lancaster but he has more boys to choose from and the Gales will be favored. Circleville won last year at Lancaster.

The starting lineup for the Tigers will be chosen from this group of players: Jack Hennis, Leonard Hill, Wilson Clark, Bob Steele, Bob McCoy, Earl Palm, "Buzze" Rhoads, Ed Webb, John Fissell, Jack M. Stout, Jack H. Stout.

TOLEDO WAITE TOP OHIO 11

Grandview Among State's Best Football Teams By SSI Ratings

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—Toledo Waite's undefeated football eleven topped all Ohio's high school teams during the 1945 season, according to the Scholastic Sports Institute ratings compiled by Dick Dunkel, Director of the Institute's Scholastic Statistical Bureau. The only data used in calculation of the ratings are actual game scores. Dunkel ratings have now been extended to cover over 4,500 high school football teams in the 13 states of highest population.

Toledo Waite's top rating of 75.5 means that it is 75 potential points stronger than the weakest team in Ohio, and ratings of all teams can be compared on this basis.

Undefeated Toledo Waite's football eleven is closely followed by Cleveland Cathedral Latin with 74.4, Massillon with 71.6, Warren with 71.4 and Canton McKinley with 71.3, in that order, to round out the top five teams in the state. Newark, East Liverpool, Youngstown Ursuline, Steubenville Cent. Catholic and Cincinnati Western Hills follow to complete the leading ten.

"Our only purpose in presenting these figures is to give coaches, players and fans an interesting state-wide picture from week to week," said Dunkel. "We have no interest in trying to decide championships."

Other top teams are: Upper Sandusky, Cincinnati Purcell, Piqua, Leetonia, Dayton Chaminade, Lorain, Middletown, Cleve. Heights, Ashtabula, Toledo Central Catholic, Cleve. St. Ignace, Campbell Memorial, Portsmouth, Youngstown Wilson, Cincinnati Roger Bacon, Cleveland Benedictine, Euclid Shore, Dover, Columbus West, Cleve. East Tech, Youngstown South, Sandusky, Cincinnati Elder, Columbus Grandview, Martin's Ferry, Shaker Heights, Middleport, Canton Lincoln, Akron Garfield, Ravenna, Western Reserve Academy, Hamilton, Dayton Northridge, Westlake, Troy, Genoa, New Philadelphia, Garfield Heights, Dayton Fairmont, University, Cleve.

ARMY AND NAVY RESUME BITTER FEUD SATURDAY

Dope Sheets Can Be Thrown Away As Service Teams Meet In Classic

BY LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—When dusk settles Saturday over the garbage dump section of south Philadelphia the only figures that are going to count are those on the scoreboard of municipal stadium.

Past performances, comparative figures and all other dope sheets can be thrown away for the only thing that will matter to the football world in general and Army and Navy in particular is that final score.

According to all indications that figure in pre-game predictions, it should favor Army—anywhere from three touchdowns up. But that isn't reckoning with the fighting spirit that often lifts an underdog team to upset favorites.

Against the five common opponents they met—Villanova, Duke, Michigan, Notre Dame and Pennsylvania—Army scored 76 first downs against 56 to Navy; gained 1,792 yards rushing against Navy's 653; covered 663 yards with passes against Navy's 593.

Taken against all opponents this season—Army met the Personnel Distribution Center of Louisville, the Melville Torpedo Boat eleven and Wake Forest in addition to the common opponents while Navy faced stronger elevens in Georgia Tech, Penn State and Wisconsin—Army was even farther out in front offensively.

Army made 112 first downs to Navy's 96; gained 3,019 yards by rushing against Navy's 1,458 and gained 408 yards passing against Navy's 782.

With Arnold Tucker and Glenn Davis sharing the throwing, Army has completed 47 passes of 91 attempts for an average of .516. Navy, with Bruce Smith and Hunchy Hoernschmeyer doing most of the throwing, completed 58 of 122 for an average of .473.

The statistics give Navy some defensive edges, but the figures do not give a true picture for most of the ground gained against Army has been against the second and third teams—after the first team had safely put the game in the bag.

The Middies permitted their eight opponents only 63 first downs against 73 for Army. On the other hand, Navy permitted its opponents a total of 922 yards on the ground while Army allowed only 614. Navy's defense against passing, however, made a better record than Army's.

The eight teams tried 131 passes against Navy, completed 37 of them for 528 yards while against Army, 114 passes were attempted and 64 completed for 713 yards. That gives Navy's opponents only a .282 completion record against 444 for Army. But again—most of the passes made against Army came when the first team was on the sidelines.

One thing which could hurt Navy Saturday is fumbling. The Middies have averaged five fumbles a game—40 against the eight teams—and recovered less than two of them in each contest. Army has fumbled only 29 times, and 13 of those miscues were recovered.

TEXAS 11 WINS OVER AGGIES, COPS S-W TITLE

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 30—Little Billy Andrews, 4 foot, 9 inch water boy for the University of Texas Longhorns humiliated the Longhorn's blood enemies, the Texas Aggies, here Thursday by going into the game to pass for an extra point as Texas marched to a 20-10 victory in this belated-Thanksgiving contest to gain the Southwestern conference championship and the right to play in the Cotton Bowl. It was the ninth win of the season for Texas against one loss, 7-6 to Rice. Scores were made in all quarters with each team scoring once in the first half, the half ending 7-7. In the third quarter the Aggies scored a field goal to take a 3-point lead. Texas came back midway in the fourth quarter, however, when Texas recovered its own punt on the Aggie 2 and scored on the next play.

Encouraged by its break, Texas went on to score again on a 30-yard pass from Bobby Layne to ex-flier Peppy Blount. It was then that Longhorn Coach Dana X. Bible saw fit to add insult to injury for the "hated" Aggies. In went Andrews to try for the extra point. The little waterboy was having the last chance to fulfill his college ambition, as his eligibility expired with the game. He had waited two years for another chance since a similar attempt failed in the Aggie game two years ago. Andrews, an expert dropkicker, surprised the crowd when he pulled a well-prepared pass play to Layne that was good for the extra point.

'LAST MESSAGE' DETAILS HEARD AT WASHINGTON

Army Officials Expected Half-Hour Delivery
On Urgent Note

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Army officials in Washington expected half-hour delivery on a warning message sent to Pearl Harbor an hour and seven minutes before the Japanese attack, the Pearl Harbor committee was told Thursday.

The message actually was decoded and delivered seven hours and three minutes after the attack.

New details on the transmission of the message were revealed in connection with testimony before the Pearl Harbor committee by Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, a brigadier general and chief of Army intelligence at the time of Pearl Harbor.

In a memorandum, prepared January 31, 1942, Miles wrote: "On the morning of December 7, 1941, having received certain information that morning that the Japanese negotiations would definitely be broken off at 1 p. m. that afternoon and being convinced that this might be timed with a planned Japanese attack somewhere, I went to the chief of staff's office (Gen. George C. Marshall) and urged him to send a warning message to the overseas departments."

Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, then brigadier general and chief of the war plans division, and other representatives of the intelligence and war plans divisions were present.

"They fully concurred in the necessity for such a message," according to the Miles' account. "It was written by the chief of staff, sent by the hand of Col. (R. S.) Bratton to the message center, and the message center stated it would be in the hands of the recipients within another half hour. Col. Bratton so reported to the chief of staff. It was not delivered in Hawaii until after the attack began."

An Army board quoted the officer in charge of the message center as having advised Bratton that 30 to 45 minutes would be required to transmit the message. The transmission time from Washington, before decoding and delivery, was 45 minutes.

Miles' memorandum said that among the significant features of the record of pre-Pearl Harbor Army messages was "the failure of the signal corps to get the message of December 7 through promptly or to notify the chief of staff or any division of the staff that it would go through promptly."

Gen. Marshall filed the message to Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short in Hawaii at 12:18 p. m. (Washington time), on December 7. That was 6:48 a. m. Honolulu time.

"Japanese are presenting at 1 p. m., Eastern Standard Time today what amounts to an ultimatum," it told the Pearl Harbor Army commander. "Also they are under orders to destroy their code machine immediately. Just what significance the hour set may have we do not know but be on alert accordingly. Inform naval authorities of this communication."

The message arrived, by commercial cable, at 7:33 a. m. Honolulu time—22 minutes before the first Japanese planes struck.

But it never did any good.

It was not decoded and delivered until 2:58 p. m.—seven hours and three minutes after the attack.

The Army board which investigated the Pearl Harbor defeat criticized Marshall on this point in its report last August. The board said it had not been "satisfactorily explained" why the message was sent by time-consuming commercial cable when FBI radio, for example, could have gotten it there in 20 minutes.

Short told the Army board that had the message sent by "scrambler phone"—a device for gambling telephone messages which are unscrambled by a similar device at the receiving end—he believed that

ASHVILLE

Henry Gloyd underwent an operation for gall stones at St. Anthony's hospital this week.

Roger Burris, who suffered a broken leg in an accident two weeks ago, is much improved and expects to be removed from St. Anthony's hospital to his home within a few days.

Doran Topolosky has recovered from scarlet fever and the quarantine will probably be lifted this week end.

The visual education department sponsored a picture show in the school auditorium. Receipts from these shows are used to replace equipment. A new screen was purchased this Fall, and it is hoped that a new projector can be bought in the near future.

Several members and visiting brothers were present at the meeting of Palmetto lodge Wednesday evening when the Page Rank was conferred on a class of six. The Esquire Rank will be conferred on the class at a special meeting next Wednesday. The local drill team will confer the Esquire Rank at Champion-Dowdall Lodge, Columbus next Tuesday evening and local members are urged to attend. Some members of the local drill team will also assist in conferring the same rank at Philos lodge, Circleville, Monday.

Marty Dore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Dore, has been quite ill for the past few days, but was much improved Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Fischer and Judy removed Wednesday to their home on East Main street, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold O'Daffer moved Thursday into the house vacated by the Fischers.

Members of the eighth grade class sent a large basket of fruit and candy Wednesday to their classmate, Doran Topolosky, who has been ill.

Ashville's basketball hopes were brighter Wednesday when it was announced that Charles Pettibone had made up his scholastic deficiencies and was eligible for the Groveport game Friday. Charles had witnessed all of this season's games to date from the sidelines. A large delegation of local fans expect to make the trip to Groveport for a game which is always one of the season's highlights.

Elmer Runkle and Jack Irwin attended the turkey dinner at the Circleville Eagles Wednesday.

VETERANS MUST APPLY TO SWPC FOR EQUIPMENT

FORT HAYES, Nov. 30—Veterans of World War II desiring to purchase Army surplus property for use in their own small business, agricultural or professional enterprises should apply to the Smaller War Plants Corporation.

"Many requests are being unnecessarily delayed," Lt. Col. William E. Keyes, chief of the Property Disposal Division of the Fifth Service Command said today, "due to applications being made to his office instead of the Smaller War Plants Corporation." The regional office for Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and the western part of Pennsylvania is located at 1717 Union Commerce Building, Cleveland 14, Ohio. For Indiana the address is 226 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago 6, Illinois.

Colonel Keyes pointed out that veterans must present evidence via means of discharge papers or other media that he is a veteran. Also required are supporting statements or affidavits to the effect that the property desired will be used in his own small enterprise.

The Smaller War Plants Corporation will assist the veteran by referring him to the appropriate disposal agency, or by agreement, may act as his agent in purchasing the property certified. In this area there are two disposal agency offices; however, each handles different types of property. Industrial machinery, supplies and raw materials are available through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Empire Building, Cleveland 1, Ohio. Consumer goods such as manufactured products ready for use by the consuming public, motor vehicles, furniture, etcetera, are handled by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation office located at 704 Race Street, Cincinnati 2, Ohio.

PLANS FOR NEW SETUP MADE BY SCOUT LEADERS

Plans for the reorganization of the Pickaway district Boy Scout committee were made at the district meeting and Scouters Roundtable held at the Container Corporation of America offices.

Under the new setup one member from each troop committee will serve on the district committee. In this way each of the committees will have direct contact with the district work and plans made for the district can be carried directly to the various troops.

A tentative report was made by the nominating committee on the nomination of committee members. The annual meeting will be held January 16. A tentative report was also made by the program committee for the meeting.

Plans for the Winter camping trip to Camp Lazarus were made. At present indications about 50 Scouts will participate in the December 8-9 overnight camp. Following the meeting a film on patrol meetings was shown.

'LAST MESSAGE' DETAILS HEARD AT WASHINGTON

Army Officials Expected Half-Hour Delivery On Urgent Note

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Army officials in Washington expected half-hour delivery on a warning message sent to Pearl Harbor an hour and seven minutes before the Japanese attack, the Pearl Harbor committee was told Thursday. The message actually was decoded and delivered seven hours and three minutes after the attack. New details on the transmission of the message were revealed in connection with testimony before the Pearl Harbor committee by Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, a brigadier general and chief of Army intelligence at the time of Pearl Harbor.

In a memorandum, prepared January 31, 1942, Miles wrote: "On the morning of December 7, 1941, having received certain information that morning that the Japanese negotiations would definitely be broken off at 1 p. m. that afternoon and being convinced that this might be timed with a planned Japanese attack somewhere, I went to the chief of staff's office (Gen. George C. Marshall) and urged him to send a warning message to the overseas departments."

Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, then brigadier general and chief of the war plans division, and other representatives of the intelligence and war plans divisions were present.

"They fully concurred in the necessity for such a message," according to the Miles' account. "It was written by the chief of staff, sent by the hand of Col. (R. S.) Bratton to the message center, and the message center stated it would be in the hands of the recipients within another half hour. Col. Bratton so reported to the chief of staff. It was not delivered in Hawaii until after the attack began."

An Army board quoted the officer in charge of the message center as having advised Bratton that 30 to 45 minutes would be required to transmit the message. The transmission time from Washington, before decoding and delivery, was 45 minutes.

Miles' memorandum said that among the significant features of the record of pre-Pearl Harbor Army messages was "the failure of the signal corps to get the message of December 7 through promptly or to notify the chief of staff or any division of the staff that it would go through promptly."

Gen. Marshall filed the message to Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short in Hawaii at 12:15 p. m. (Washington time), on December 7. That was 6:45 a. m. Honolulu time.

"Japanese are presenting at 1 p. m., Eastern Standard Time today what amounts to an ultimatum," it told the Pearl Harbor Army commander. "Also they are under orders to destroy their code machine immediately. Just what significance the hour set may have we do not know but be on alert accordingly. Inform naval authorities of this communication."

The message arrived, by commercial cable, at 7:33 a. m. Honolulu time—22 minutes before the first Japanese planes struck. But it never did any good.

It was not decoded and delivered until 2:58 p. m.—seven hours and three minutes after the attack.

The Army board which investigated the Pearl Harbor defeat criticized Marshall on this point in its report last August. The board said it had not been "satisfactorily explained" why the message was sent by time-consuming commercial cable when FBI radio, for example, could have gotten it there in 20 minutes.

Short told the Army board that had the message sent by "scrambler phone"—a device for gambling telephone messages which are unscrambled by a similar device at the receiving end—he believed that

Henry Gloyd underwent an operation for gall stones at St. Anthony's hospital this week.

Roger Burris, who suffered a broken leg in an accident two weeks ago, is much improved and expects to be removed from St. Anthony's hospital to his home within a few days.

Doran Topolosky has recovered from scarlet fever and the quarantine will probably be lifted this week end.

The visual education department sponsored a picture show in the school auditorium. Receipts from these shows are used to replace equipment. A new screen was purchased this Fall, and it is hoped that a new projector can be bought in the near future.

Several members and visiting brothers were present at the meeting of Palmetto lodge Wednesday evening when the Page Rank was conferred on a class of six. The Esquire Rank will be conferred on the class at a special meeting next Wednesday. The local drill team will confer the Esquire Rank at Champion-Dowdall Lodge, Columbus next Tuesday evening and local members are urged to attend. Some members of the local drill team will also assist in conferring the same rank at Philos lodge, Circleville, Monday.

Marty Dore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Dore, has been quite ill for the past few days, but was much improved Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Fischer and Judy removed Wednesday to their home on East Main street, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold O'Daffer moved Thursday into the house vacated by the Fischers.

Members of the eighth grade class sent a large basket of fruit and candy Wednesday to their classmate, Doran Topolosky, who has been ill.

90 PERCENT OF IMPORTED LABOR NOW RELEASED

Jamaicans And Others Sent Home As Americans Replace Them

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30 — More than 90 per cent of the 15,000 prisoners of war and foreign workers brought into the Ohio-Michigan-Kentucky region to relieve the wartime manpower shortage have been sent back, and the number remaining is decreasing steadily. J. Kimball Johnson, regional United States Employment Service director, announced today.

Practically all of the approximately 175 Jamaicans, Barbadians and Hondurans still in this three-state region will be removed by the first of the year, he said. It is estimated that there are less than 1,200 war prisoners working principally in the pulpwood and chemical wood industries, food processing and agriculture, and it is expected that most of these will have been removed from their jobs shortly after the first of the year. Prisoners employed in the region at time numbered approximately 13,000, exclusive of those working in agriculture.

All of the foreign workers have been removed from Michigan and Kentucky, Johnson said, while the majority still in Ohio are employed mainly in the greater Akron area, mostly in foundries. A few others are doing common labor for refractories in East Palestine and Canton, for quarries in Amherst, food processing in Medina, rayon cord for tires in Painesville, tires in Findlay and only two foreign workers in fertilizer plants in Cleveland. At one time there were more than 2,000 foreign workers in the region, the majority being employed in Michigan and Ohio foundries.

"The war prisoners and foreign workers are employed as unskilled labor at jobs for which American labor is not available," Johnson said. "As American workers accept these jobs, the employers are required to release a corresponding number of war prisoners or foreign workers."

VOTE NEAR ON RIVERS, HARBORS FUND MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—The house after four days of spirited debate, approached a showdown vote today on a proposed $122,275,000 appropriation for flood control and rivers and harbors projects.

The funds would be an addition to a $1,131,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill to operate government agencies until next June 30. The proposal was supported by a strong house bloc although it was rejected by the house appropriations committee.

The Army engineers and budget bureau recommended $128,475,000 (m) for flood control and rivers and harbors, but the committee omitted the item from the bill, recommending that it be included instead in regular 1947 appropriations which become available July 1, 1948.

Rep. J. Buell Snyder, D., Pa., introduced an amendment to provide $122,275,000 for this work despite pleas by Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon, D., Mo., and Rep. Clifton A. Woodrum, D., Va., that it was time for congress to reduce spending and think of balancing the budget.

Rep. Albert J. Engel, R., Mich., attempting to forestall a vote on the flood control and rivers and harbors amendment, offered another amendment late yesterday to kill the bill. It was defeated by voice vote.

Engel indicated his belief that the Snyder amendment would be passed. He said there were 118 projects in 31 states represented by 371 house members, almost all of whom would support Snyder.

EXILES FROM VENEZUELA AT MIAMI, FLORIDA

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 30—Two former Venezuelan presidents Isaias Medina Angarita and Eleazar Lopez Contreras arrived today with 10 other former government officials and military officers to begin their political exile.

"We left Venezuela," Lopez said, "because of the demands of the junta government."

Four other former government officials also were scheduled to leave their homeland with the group yesterday but they missed the special Pan-American plane which brought the exiles here.

All 16 had been detained by the revolutionary government that overthrew Medina's regime last Oct. 19.

Medina and his party declined to comment on the revolution or actions of the junta headed by Romula Bettancourt. Medina said they were under arrest until they boarded the plane yesterday morning.

SNOW AND FOG HAMPER SEARCH FOR 7 AIRMEN

COOS BAY, Ore., Nov. 30—Snow and fog today were hampering efforts of military and civilian search parties to locate seven airmen believed wandering in the dense southern Oregon forests.

Experienced woodsmen said the men were lost in the roughest part of the Oregon woods. It was feared that if continued cold weather persisted the men would suffer from extreme exposure.

Additional reinforcements were called from nearby Army and Coast Guard installations and residents of Douglas County, Ore., some 100 miles north of Coos Bay, were asked to patrol nearby roads in the belief the men might have parachuted farther north.

Flight Officer Floyd C. Waddell of La Plata, Mo., and Major Frank Gaunt and Flight Officer Ted G. Hartzog, recuperating at Coos Bay from their experience, offered to return to hunt for their seven lost companions. Doctors said, however, that they should rest.

SOME OBSERVED EARLY WARNING

Records Show Panama Canal And Other Commands More Alert Than Hawaii

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Army records showed today that U. S. military commanders at the Panama canal, in the Philippines and on the West Coast reported taking more extensive defense measures than the Hawaiian command in response to a November 27, 1941 warning message.

Responses from various field commanders were presented to the Pearl Harbor investigating committee to show what action was reported as a result of the message. It went out 10 days before Pearl Harbor from Gen. George C. Marshall, then Army chief of staff, with a warning that "hostile action (is) possible at any moment."

Marshall's message said that if hostilities could not be avoided, the United States wanted Japan to "commit the first overt act" but that the policy should not restrict action which might jeopardize defense.

The message also ordered the commanders to "undertake such reconnaissance and other measures as you deem necessary" but directed some of them not to alarm the civilian population.

The reply from the late Lt. Gen. F. M. Andrews, commander at the Panama Canal, said that two aircraft warning detectors were on a 24-hour alert and that "all available anti-aircraft equipment is installed and on a 24-hour alert." Andrews also reported that the Navy was conducting a continuous surface patrol, supplemented by an air patrol "within the limits" of available aircraft.

An Army board report last August said that the aircraft warning system at Pearl Harbor was operated only from 4 to 7 a. m. for training purposes, that mobile anti-aircraft guns were not in position and that ammunition had not been issued for them.

The same report, however, criticized Maj. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, then chief of the war plans divisions, for failing to realize that Short's reply to the November 27 message showed the Hawaiian command was not ready for war and for failure to take corrective action.

The documents made public today revealed that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had reported from the Philippines that:

"... Air reconnaissance has been extended and intensified in conjunction with the Navy ground security measures have been taken. Within the limitations imposed by present state of development of this theatre of operations, every-

SNOW AND FOG HAMPER SEARCH FOR 7 AIRMEN

COOS BAY, Ore., Nov. 30 — Snow and fog today were hampering efforts of military and civilian search parties to locate seven airmen believed wandering in the dense southern Oregon forests.

Experienced woodsmen said the men were lost in the roughest part of the Oregon woods. It was feared that if continued cold weather persisted the men would suffer from extreme exposure.

Additional reinforcements were called from nearby Army and Coast Guard installations and residents of Douglas County, Ore., some 100 miles north of Coos Bay, were asked to patrol nearby roads in the belief the men might have parachuted farther north.

Flight Officer Floyd C. Waddell of La Plata, Mo., and Major Frank Gaunt and Flight Officer Ted G. Hartzog, recuperating at Coos Bay from their experience, offered to return to hunt for their seven lost companions. Doctors said, however, that they should rest.

SOME OBSERVED EARLY WARNING

Records Show Panama Canal And Other Commands More Alert Than Hawaii

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 — Army records showed today that U. S. military commanders at the Panama canal, in the Philippines and on the West Coast reported taking more extensive defense measures than the Hawaiian command in response to a November 27, 1941 warning message.

Responses from various field commanders were presented to the Pearl Harbor investigating committee to show what action was reported as a result of the message. It went out 10 days before Pearl Harbor from Gen. George C. Marshall, then Army chief of staff, with a warning that "hostile action (is) possible at any moment."

Marshall's message said that if hostilities could not be avoided, the United States wanted Japan to "commit the first overt act" but that the policy should not restrict action which might jeopardize defense.

The message also ordered the commanders to "undertake such reconnaissance and other measures as you deem necessary" but directed some of them not to alarm the civilian population.

The reply from the late Lt. Gen. F. M. Andrews, commander at the Panama Canal, said that two aircraft warning detectors were on a 24-hour alert and that "all available anti-aircraft equipment is installed and on a 24-hour alert."

Andrews also reported that the Navy was conducting a continuous surface patrol, supplemented by an air patrol "within the limits" of available aircraft.

An Army board report last August said that the aircraft warning system at Pearl Harbor was operated only from 4 to 7 a. m. for training purposes, that mobile anti-aircraft guns were not in position and that ammunition had not been issued for them.

The same report, however, criticized Maj. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, then chief of the war plans divisions, for failing to realize that Short's reply to the November 27 message showed the Hawaiian command was not ready for war and for failure to take corrective action.

The documents made public today revealed that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had reported from the Philippines that: "Air reconnaissance has been extended and intensified in conjunction with the Navy ground security measures have been taken. Within the limitations imposed by present state of development of this theatre of operations, every-

THROUGH PULLMANS

SOME day a railroad passenger can ride
all the way across the United States without changing at Chicago, St. Louis or Memphis. The coming of that day has been hastened by the promotion given it by the Chesapeake & Ohio and Nickle Plate railroads. In a recent statement these roads point out that transferring a Pullman from one line to another should not overtax ingeniety, as it is already done extensively.
They promise to cooperate with any arrangement that may be proposed.

This is one detail in which the United States does not lead the world. The Canadian Pacific takes riders from Montreal to Vancouver in the same sleeping car.
And the Russian Trans-Siberian, stretching across one-sixth of the world's land surface, does not dream of making passengers change cars as they go from Moscow to the Pacific Ocean.

BETTER THAN WAR

CONGRESS is worried about where Army-Navy football games should be played. Heretofore they have taken place in the East, with this year's game Dec. 1, scheduled for Philadelphia. Senator Langer of North Dakota has just put his mind to it and introduced a resolution that the game be played in each of the 48 states in alphabetical order beginning with Alabama next year, with no admission charge.

The matter is of such grave importance that it was taken up before the House Military Affairs Committee and Secretary of War Patterson was drawn into the discussion. With all the problems these men have on their minds it must be a relief to turn for a bit to football. And isn't it wonderful that the world situation permits them to legislate about gridirons for young Americans instead of battlefields.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—The town's most unusual honeymooners today are Mr.
and Mrs. Gene Curtsinger of Hollywood, Calif. Radio got them married, flew them to New York from the west coast and finally, after 30 hours, left them alone.

Of course, they brought it all on themselves, as is the case with most married couples. A few days ago when Mrs. Curt-singer was still Barbara Redd, 18, radio receptionist, they heard about a new program making its debut Nov. 26 on the American Broadcasting company's network and originating in Hollywood. They were planning to marry soon anyway and when they noted that the program, bride and groom, was going to specialize in getting couples married they wrote in their qualifications, and were selected.

They've had a pretty mad time since Monday. At 4:15 p. m. (EST) that day they were introduced on the radio program, with Miss Redd wearing a wedding dress which Barbara Stanwyck wears in a picture called "The Bride Wore Boots" (and that picture I've got to see solely on the basis of the title). After the introduction they shifted from the broadcasting studio in the Chapman Park hotel to the hotel's chapel where they were married in a ceremony that wasn't broadcast. The sponsor paid the minister's fee and provided a diamond wedding ring. Then, man and wife, they shuttled back to the studio to appear on the latter part of the broadcast.

The lucky ones who achieve this show get, besides silver and similar housekeeping gifts, the right to name their chief desire. The Curtsingers spoke for a week's honeymoon in New York. Immediately after the program, a network press agent took them in charge and got aboard a chartered five-place plane at Burbank airport. From 8 p. m. Monday until 6:50 Tuesday night they, the press agent and two pilots fought their way across the country through as fierce a set of storms as ever beset newlyweds. Once here they ran into a much-delayed reception which consumed most of the rest of their evening.

The bride is a comely brunette and the groom, aged 35, is a sandy-haired fellow recently out of the Army. He's a tenor and does movie and radio work on the coast. Both originated in Dallas but never met until last May in Hollywood.

Frank Sinatra closed out his engagement at the Paramount theater Tuesday and you should have seen the day's first stage show. The kids, a bit subdued by his departure, were out in the usual force and they showered him with gifts, which they carried down the aisles to the stage. There were identification bracelets, teddy bears for the junior Sinatras, a large cake adorned with the lettering "Frankie" and many other things. Some of the bobby-sockers were in tears.

This is Frank's last theater commitment under his old contract which bound him to regular appearances at the Paramount. He may do a little theater work in the future but it will be only when he feels physically capable of coping with it—when he doesn't have a lot of other work to handle at the same time. He was out of the Paramount two days this time when the voice went back on him due to overwork.

Miller's band are free from the Army, the

DIET AND HEALTH

Sticking to Prescribed Diet Best Bet for Overweights

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THIS matter of being overweight always deserves serious consideration. One of the most important and common types of obesity or overweight is that which is due to overeating. There are a few instances in which the overweight is due to some glandular disturbance, but these are far in the minority.

According to Doctor Louis Pelner of Brooklyn, overeating may be due to some psychic or mental disturbance in which a person is unprepared to meet the social demands of everyday life. Then, too, there may be people who lack normal interest in life and obtain pleasure in overeating. It is often impossible to satisfy the appetites of such persons.

Mental Conflict

There is, also, a certain form of mental conflict in women, which may lead to obesity. They overeat and get fat to escape from the competition for masculine attention.

In treating obesity due to over-eating, it is obvious that the first and most important thing to do is to put the patient on a low-calorie well-balanced diet, that is, a diet low in heat-producing value, but containing all of the necessary food elements, vitamins, and minerals.

If the patient can stick to the diet, no other treatment will be necessary, but because of the mental conflicts which may be present, the patients, as a rule, will not follow the diet outlined for them.

Diet Limited

Of course, the diet should, as a rule, be limited in such things as fatty meats, fried foods, bread, butter, chocolate, cocoa, ice cream, and cream. Pastries, alcoholic drinks, sweet potatoes, and white cereals, such as rice and farina, must also be reduced in amount.
The patient should eat sparingly of such vegetables as green peas, lima beans, potatoes and corn, and of such fruits as berries, apples, cherries, bananas, and grapes.

The following of a low-calorie diet may often cause a feeling of weakness, and this, together with the fact that many persons find it difficult to curb their appetites, makes it difficult for the patients to stick to the reducing program.

Therefore, it may be necessary during the reducing period, to employ some substance that will check the appetite and, at the same time, give the patient a feeling of well-being that will encourage him to continue the dietary treatment. Two substances are used for this purpose, one, amphetamin and the other atropine.

The drugs, as a rule, are given by mouth one hour before each meal. From time to time it may be necessary to increase the dose of these drugs, as the patient develops a tolerance to them. Of course, these preparations should be used only under the doctor's direction.

Persons who are overweight can reduce if they follow a well-planned program which the doctor will outline for them.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO
WHEN THEY left the doctor's house they went down to the ferry.
The ferry consisted of a rowing boat operated by two brothers, Will and George Barnes. The Barnes brothers knew everybody in Salt-creek by sight and most of the people who came over from Easter-head Bay. George said at once that Mr. Strange from Gull's Point had gone across at 10:30 on the preceding night. No, he had not brought Mr. Strange back again. Last ferry had gone at 1:30 from the Easter-head side and Mr. Strange wasn't on it.

Battle asked him if he knew Mr.
Latimer.

"Latimer? Latimer? Tall, handsome young gentleman? Comes over from the hotel up to Gull's Point? Yes, I know him. Didn't see him at all last night, though. He's been over this morning. Went back last trip."

They crossed on the ferry and went up to the Easterhead Bay hotel.

Here they found Mr. Latimer newly returned from the other side.
He had crossed on the ferry before them.

Mr. Latimer was very anxious to do all he could to help.

"Yes, old Neville came over last night. Looked very blue over something. Told me he'd had a row with the old lady. I hear he'd fallen out with Kay, too, but he didn't tell me that, of course. Anyway, he was a bit down in the mouth. Seemed quite glad of my company for once, in a way."

"He wasn't able to find you at once, I understand?"

Latimer said sharply:

"Don't know why. I was sitting in the lounge. Strange said he looked in and didn't see me, but he wasn't in a state to concentrate. Or I may have strolled out into the gardens for five minutes or so. Always get out when I can. Beastly smell in this hotel. Noticed it last night in the bar. Drains, I think!
Strange mentioned it too! We both smelt it. Nasty decayed smell.
Might be a dead rat under the billiard room floor."

"You played billiards, and after your game?"

"Oh, we talked a bit, had another drink or two. Then Neville said
'Hello, I've missed the ferry,' so I said 'I'd get out my car and drive him back, which I did. We got there about 2:30.'"

"And Mr. Strange was with you all the evening?"

"Oh, yes. Ask anybody. They'll tell you."

"Thank you, Mr. Latimer. We have to be so careful."

Leach said as they left the smiling, self-possessed young man:

"What's the idea of checking up so carefully on Neville Strange?"

Battle smiled. Leach got it suddenly.

"Good Lord, it's the other one you're checking up on. So that's your idea."

"It's too soon to have ideas," said Battle. "I've just got to know exactly where Mr. Ted Latimer was last night. We know that from quarter past eleven, say—to midnight—he was with Neville Strange."

He spoke with a certain grim
satisfaction, then shook his head

But where was he before that—when Strange arrived and couldn't find him?"

They pursued their inquiries doggedly—with bar attendants, waiters, lift boys. Latimer had been seen in the lounge between nine and ten. He had been in the bar at a quarter past ten. But between that time and 11:20 he seemed to have been singularly elusive. Then one of the maids was found who declared that Mr. Latimer had been
"in one of the small writing rooms with Mrs. Beddoes—that's the fat North country lady."

Pressed as to time she said she thought it was about 11 o'clock.

"That tears it," said Battle gloomily. "He was here all right.
Just didn't want attention drawn to his fat (and no doubt rich) lady friend. That throws us back on those others—the servants, Kay Strange, Audrey Strange, Mary Aldin and Thomas Royde. One of them killed the old lady, but which?
If we could find the real weapon—"

He stopped, then slapped his thigh.

"Got it, Jim, my boy! I know now what made me think of Hercule Poirot. We'll have a spot of lunch and go back to Gull's Point and I'll show you something."

Mary Aldin was restless. She went in and out of the house, picked off a dead dahlia head here and there, went back into the drawing room and shifted flower vases in an unmeaning fashion.

From the library came a vague murmur of voices. Mr. Trelawny was in there with Neville. Kay and Audrey were nowhere to be seen.

Mary went out in the garden again. Down by the wall she spied Thomas Royde placidly smoking.
She went and joined him.

"Oh, dear," she sat down beside him with a deep perplexed sigh.
"Anything the matter?" Thomas asked.

Mary laughed with a slight note of hysteria in the laugh.

"Nobody but you would say a thing like that. A murder in the house and you just say, 'Is anything the matter?'"

Looking a little surprised, Thomas said:

"I meant anything fresh?"

"Oh, I know what you meant.
It's really a wonderful relief to find anyone so gloriously just-the-same-as-usual as you are!"

"Not much good, is it, getting all hot up over things?"

"No, no. You're eminently sensible. It's how you manage to do it beats me."

"Well, I suppose I'm an outsider."

"That's true, of course. You can't feel the relief all the rest of us do that Neville is cleared."

"I'm very pleased he is, of course," said Royde.

Mary shuddered.

"It was a very near thing. If Camilla hadn't taken it into her head to ring the bell for Barrett after Neville had left her—"

She left the sentence unfinished.
Thomas finished it for her.

"Then old Neville would have been in for it all right."

He spoke with a certain grim
satisfaction, then shook his head

Mary whispered, "Yes."

Thomas said quietly:

Mary half closed her eyes.

"I've been trying to remember.
 . . . He told it, you know, so very deliberately. . . . He almost dragged it into the conversation.
And he said he would recognize the person anywhere. He emphasized that. As though he had recognized him."

"Mm," said Thomas. "I've been through all that."

"But why should he do it? What was the point?"

"I suppose," said Royde, "it was a kind of warning. Not to try anything on."

"You mean that Mr. Treves knew then that Camilla was going to be murdered?"

"No. I think that's too fantastic.
It may have been just a general warning."

"What I've been wondering is, do you think we ought to tell the police?"

"To that Thomas again gave his thoughtful consideration."

"I think not," he said at last. "I don't see that it's relevant in any way. It's not as though Treves were alive and could tell them anything."

"No," said Mary. "He's dead." She gave a quick shiver. "It's so odd, Thomas, the way he died."

"Heart attack. He had a bad heart."

"I mean that curious business about the lift being out of order. I don't like it."

"I don't like it very much myself," said Thomas Royde.

THROUGH PULLMANS

SOME day a railroad passenger can ride all the way across the United States without changing at Chicago, St. Louis or Memphis. The coming of that day has been hastened by the promotion given it by the Chesapeake & Ohio and Nickle Plate railroads. In a recent statement these roads point out that transferring a Pullman from one line to another should not overtax ingenuity, as it is already done extensively. They promise to cooperate with any arrangement that may be proposed.

This is one detail in which the United States does not lead the world. The Canadian Pacific takes riders from Montreal to Vancouver in the same sleeping car. And the Russian Trans-Siberian, stretching across one-sixth of the world's land surface, does not dream of making passengers change cars as they go from Moscow to the Pacific Ocean.

BETTER THAN WAR

CONGRESS is worried about where Army-Navy football games should be played. Heretofore they have taken place in the East, with this year's game Dec. 1, scheduled for Philadelphia. Senator Langer of North Dakota has just put his mind to it and introduced a resolution that the game be played in each of the 48 states in alphabetical order beginning with Alabama next year, with no admission charge.

The matter is of such grave importance that it was taken up before the House Military Affairs Committee and Secretary of War Patterson was drawn into the discussion. With all the problems these men have on their minds it must be a relief to turn for a bit to football. And isn't it wonderful that the world situation permits them to legislate about gridirons for young Americans instead of battlefields.

FREE FOR THE ASKING

COMMERCIAL educational training, almost beyond the mind's ability to absorb is available at no greater price than a penny postal. House magazines of most industries are to be had for the asking, and are kept going to subscribers regularly. The public's understanding of what a certain company makes, and how this company contributes to modern living is to be found in manufacturers' house organs. Anyone with a burning curiosity and a dollar to invest in 100 post cards undoubtedly could have the world's commercial and industrial story piled in his lap monthly year in and year out.

Knowledge is cheap. Ignorance is unnecessary—and often expensive.

You can't blame returning heroes for getting sore. First they have to fight for peace, and then they have to fight for a house to live in.

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—The town's most unusual honeymooners today are Mr. and Mrs. Gene Curtsinger of Hollywood, Calif. Radio got them married, flew them to New York from the west coast and finally, after 30 hours, left them alone.

Of course, they brought it all on themselves, as is the case with most married couples. A few days ago when Mrs. Curtsinger was still Barbara Redd, 18, radio receptionist, they heard about a new program making its debut Nov. 26 on the American Broadcasting company's network and originating in Hollywood. They were planning to marry soon anyway and when they noted that the program, bride and groom, was going to specialize in getting couples married they wrote in their qualifications, and were selected.

They've had a pretty mad time since Monday. At 4:15 p. m. (EST) that day they were introduced on the radio program, with Miss Redd wearing a wedding dress which Barbara Stanwyck wears in a picture called "The Bride Wore Boots" (and that picture I've got to see solely on the basis of the title). After the introduction they shifted from the broadcasting studio in the Chapman Park hotel to the hotel's chapel where they were married in a ceremony that wasn't broadcast. The sponsor paid the minister's fee and provided a diamond wedding ring. Then, man and wife, they shuttled back to the studio to appear on the latter part of the broadcast.

The lucky ones who achieve this show get, besides silver and similar housekeeping gifts, the right to name their chief desire. The Curtsingers spoke for a week's honeymoon in New York. Immediately after the program, a network press agent took them in charge and got aboard a chartered five-place plane at Burbank airport. From 8 p. m. Monday until 6:50 Tuesday night they, the press agent and two pilots fought their way across the country through as fierce a set of storms as ever beset newlyweds. Once here they ran into a much-delayed reception which consumed most of the rest of their evening.

The bride is a comely brunette and the groom, aged 35, is a sandy-haired fellow recently out of the Army. He's a tenor and does movie and radio work on the coast. Both originated in Dallas but never met until last May in Hollywood.

Frank Sinatra closed out his engagement at the Paramount theater Tuesday and you should have seen the day's first stage show. The kids, a bit subdued by his departure, were out in the usual force and they showered him with gifts, which they carried down the aisles to the stage. There were identification bracelets, teddy bears for the junior Sinatras, a large cake adorned with the lettering "Frankie" and many other things. Some of the bobby-sockers were in tears.

This is Frank's last theater commitment under his old contract which bound him to regular appearances at the Paramount. He may do a little theater work in the future but it will be only when he feels physically capable of coping with it—when he doesn't have a lot of other work to handle at the same time. He was out of the Paramount two days this time when the voice went back on him due to overwork.

When all the boys of the late Maj. Glenn Miller's band are free from the Army, the

DIET AND HEALTH

Sticking to Prescribed Diet Best Bet for Overweights

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THIS matter of being overweight always deserves serious consideration. One of the most important and common types of obesity or overweight is that which is due to overeating. There are a few instances in which the overweight is due to some glandular disturbance, but these are far in the minority.

According to Doctor Louis Peller of Brooklyn, overeating may be due to some psychic or mental disturbance in which a person is unprepared to meet the social demands of everyday life. Then, too, there may be people who lack normal interest in life and obtain pleasure in overeating. It is often impossible to satisfy the appetites of such persons.

Mental Conflict

There is, also, a certain form of mental conflict in women, which may lead to obesity. They overeat and get fat to escape from the competition for masculine attention.

In treating obesity due to overeating, it is obvious that the first and most important thing to do is to put the patient on a low-calorie well-balanced diet, that is, a diet low in heat-producing value, but containing all of the necessary food elements, vitamins, and minerals.

If the patient can stick to the diet, no other treatment will be necessary, but because of the mental conflicts which may be present, the patients, as a rule, will not follow the diet outlined for them.

Diet Limited

Of course, the diet should, as a rule, be limited in such things as fatty meats, fried foods, bread, butter, chocolate, cocoa, ice cream, and cream. Pastries, alcoholic drinks, sweet potatoes, and white cereals, such as rice and farina, must also be reduced in amount.

The patient should eat sparingly of such vegetables as green peas, lima beans, potatoes and corn, and of such fruits as berries, apples, cherries, bananas, and grapes.

The following of a low-calorie diet may often cause a feeling of weakness, and this, together with the fact that many persons find it difficult to curb their appetites, makes it difficult for the patients to stick to the reducing program.

Therefore, it may be necessary during the reducing period, to employ some substance that will check the appetite and, at the same time, give the patient a feeling of well-being that will encourage him to continue the dietary treatment. Two substances are used for this purpose, one, amphetamine and the other atropine. The drugs, as a rule, are given by mouth one hour before each meal. From time to time it may be necessary to increase the dose of these drugs, as the patient develops a tolerance to them. Of course, these preparations should be used only under the doctor's direction.

Persons who are overweight can reduce if they follow a well-planned program which the doctor will outline for them.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO
WHEN THEY left the doctor's house they went down to the ferry. The ferry consisted of a rowing boat operated by two brothers, Will and George Barnes. The Barnes brothers knew everybody in Salt-creek by sight and most of the people who came over from Easterhead Bay. George said at once that Mr. Strange from Gull's Point had gone across at 10:30 on the preceding night. No, he had not brought Mr. Strange back again. Last ferry had gone at 1:30 from the Easterhead side and Mr. Strange wasn't on it.

Battle asked him if he knew Mr. Latimer.

"Latimer? Latimer? Tall, handsome young gentleman? Comes over from the hotel up to Gull's Point? Yes, I know him. Didn't see him at all last night, though. He's been over this morning. Went back last trip."

They crossed on the ferry and went up to the Easterhead Bay hotel.

Here they found Mr. Latimer newly returned from the other side. He had crossed on the ferry before theirs.

Mr. Latimer was very anxious to do all he could to help.

"Yes, old Neville came over last night. Looked very blue over something. Told me he'd had a row with the old lady. I hear he'd fallen out with Kay, too, but he didn't tell me that, of course. Anyway, he was a bit down in the mouth. Seemed quite glad of my company for once, in a way."

"He wasn't able to find you at once, I understand?"

Latimer said sharply:

"Don't know why. I was sitting in the lounge. Strange said he looked in and didn't see me, but he wasn't in a state to concentrate. Or I may have strolled out into the gardens for five minutes or so. Always get out when I can. Beastly smell in this hotel. Noticed it last night in the bar. Drains, I think! Strange mentioned it too! We both smelt it. Nasty decayed smell. Might be a dead rat under the billiard room floor."

"You played billiards, and after your game?"

"Oh, we talked a bit, had another drink or two. Then Neville said 'Hello, I've missed the ferry,' so I said I'd get out my car and drive him back, which I did. We got there about 2:30."

"And Mr. Strange was with you all the evening?"

"Oh, yes. Ask anybody. They'll tell you."

"Thank you, Mr. Latimer. We have to be so careful."

Leach said as they left the smiling, self-possessed young man:

"What's the idea of checking up so carefully on Neville Strange?"

Battle smiled. Leach got it suddenly.

"Good Lord, it's the other one you're checking up on. So that's your idea."

"It's too soon to have ideas," said Battle. "I've just got to know exactly where Mr. Ted Latimer was last night. We know that from quarter past eleven, say—to midnight—he was with Neville Strange."

But where was he before that—when Strange arrived and couldn't find him?"

They pursued their inquiries doggedly—with bar attendants, waiters, lift boys. Latimer had been seen in the lounge between nine and ten. He had been in the bar at a quarter past ten. But between that time and 11:20 he seemed to have been singularly elusive. Then one of the maids who found out declared that Mr. Latimer had been in one of the small writing rooms with Mrs. Peddoo—that's the fat North country lady."

Pressed as to time she said she thought it was about 11 o'clock.

"That tears it," said Battle gloomily. "He was here all right. Just didn't want attention drawn to his fat (and no doubt rich) lady friend. That throws us back on those others—the servants, Kay Strange, Audrey Strange, Mary Aldin and Thomas Royde. One of them killed the old lady, but which? If we could find the real weapon—"

He stopped, then slapped his thigh.

"Got it, Jim, my boy! I know now what made me think of Hercule Poirot. We'll have a spot of lunch and go back to Gull's Point and I'll show you something."

Mary Aldin was restless. She went in and out of the house, picked off a dead dahlia head here and there, went back into the drawing room and shifted flower vases in an unmeaning fashion.

From the library came a vague murmur of voices. Mr. Trelawny was in there with Neville. Kay and Audrey were nowhere to be seen.

Mary went out in the garden again. Down by the wall she spied Thomas Royde placidly smoking. She went and joined him.

"Oh, dear," she said down beside him with a deep perplexed sigh. "Anything the matter?" Thomas asked.

Mary laughed with a slight note of hysteria in the laugh.

"Nobody but you would say a thing like that. A murder in the house and you just say, 'Is anything the matter?'"

Looking a little surprised, Thomas said:

"I meant anything fresh?"

"Oh, I know what you meant. It's really a wonderful relief to find anyone so gloriously just-the-same-as-usual as you are!"

"Not much good, is it, getting all het up over things?"

"No, no. You're eminently sensible. It's how you manage to do it beats me."

"Well, I suppose I'm an outsider."

"That's true, of course. You can't feel the relief all the rest of us do that Neville is cleared."

"I'm very pleased he is, of course," said Royde.

Mary shuddered.

"It was a very near thing. If Camilla hadn't taken it into her head to ring the bell for Barrett after Neville had left her—"

She left the sentence unfinished. Thomas finished it for her.

"Then old Neville would have been in for it all right."

He spoke with a certain grim satisfaction, then shook his head with a slight smile, as he met Mary's reproachful gaze.

"I'm not really heartless, but now that Neville's all right I can't help being pleased he had a bit of a shaking up. He's always so blamed complacent."

"He isn't really, Thomas."

"Perhaps not. It's just his manner. Anyway, he was looking scared as Hades this morning."

"What a cruel streak you have!"

"Well, he's all right now. You know, Mary, even here Neville has had the devil's own luck. Some other poor beggar with all the evidence piled up against him mightn't have had such a break."

Mary shivered again.

"Don't say that. I like to think the innocent are—protected."

"Do you, my dear?" His voice was gentle.

Mary burst out suddenly.

"Thomas, I'm worried. I'm frightfully worried."

"Yes."

"It's about Mr. Treves."

Thomas dropped his pipe on the stones. His voice changed as he bent to pick it up.

"What about Mr. Treves?"

"That night he was here—that story he told—about a little murderer! I've been wondering, Thomas. . . . Was it just a story? Or did he tell it with a purpose?"

"You mean," said Royde deliberately, "was it aimed at someone who was in the room?"

Mary whispered, "Yes."

Thomas said quietly:

"I've been wondering, too. As a matter of fact that was what I was thinking about when you came along just now."

Mary half closed her eyes.

"I've been trying to remember. . . . He told it, you know, so very deliberately. . . . He almost dragged it into the conversation. And he said he would recognize the person anywhere. He emphasized that. As though he had recognized him."

"Mm," said Thomas. "I've been through all that."

"But why should he do it? What was the point?"

"I suppose," said Royde, "it was a kind of warning. Not to try anything on."

"You mean that Mr. Treves knew that Camilla was going to be murdered?"

"No. I think that's too fantastic. It may have been just a general warning."

"What I've been wondering is, do you think we ought to tell the police?"

To that Thomas again gave his thoughtful consideration.

"I think not," he said at last. "I don't see that it's relevant in any way. It's not as though Treves were alive and could tell them anything."

"No," said Mary. "He's dead." She gave a quick shiver. "It's so odd, Thomas, the way he died."

"Heart attack. He had a bad heart."

"I mean that curious business about the lift being out of order. I don't like it."

"I don't like it very much myself," said Thomas Royde.

DON'T WHISPER! SHOUT!
SOME PARTNERS pay scant attention to the size of the cards you play, unless their size influences the winning of the current trick. With such an associate opposite you, it seldom does any good to give a signal in a delicate manner, as would be the case with a more observant partner. You have to practically shout at the top of your voice, using the very highest cards you can afford to make them seem encouraging. Even then, you may find that he refuses to act as you plead with him to do.

Stuart Burns Walling Married At Portsmouth

Former Resident Of City Is Wed To Mrs. Breece

Announcement was received in Circleville Thursday of the marriage in Portsmouth on Wednesday of Stuart Burns Walling and Mrs. Betty Stahley Breece.

Mr. Walling, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Percy Walling of this city, is a graduate of Circleville high school. He also attended Ohio State university and has been an employee of the Norfolk and Western Railroad at Portsmouth for the last 15 years.

They left immediately after the ceremony for Philadelphia, where they will attend the Army-Navy game, Saturday.

Mrs. Walling's daughter, Patricia Dean Breece, was married last Saturday to Lt. Bernard R. McKinney at her home in Portsmouth.

Degree Work Plans Are Made By Star Grange Members

Plans for the exemplification of degree work and an exchange of Christmas gifts were made for the next meeting of the Star Grange to be held December 18, at the last meeting of that organization.

During this meeting the ladies' degree team conferred the first and second degrees on Mr. and Mrs. Warner Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Hatfield, Mrs. Alice Van Fossen and Mrs. Floral Kinch.

Mrs. Russell Timmons was elected juvenile matron and Mrs. Loring Stoor, assistant.

Members are asked to note change of date for the next meeting which has been postponed one week because of the State Grange session which will be held in Columbus the week of Dec. 10.

Francis Furniss, newly appointed captain of the third and fourth degree team announced practice for the afternoon of December 16.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Loring Stoor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stoor and Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Long.

Two Reviews Given At Group H Meeting

Sixteen members of Group H of the Women's society of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. Stanley Croman, Washington township with Mrs. Forrest Croman as assisting hostess.

Mrs. D. A. Yates was in charge of the devotionals. Mrs. Franklin Kibler reviewed two articles from the "Church Woman" on Home Mission work, in rural Kentucky and at the academy for young Presbyterian people in the Rocky Mountain region.

It was decided to omit a meeting in December and Mrs. Yates invited the group to her home for the first meeting in January.

Travel pictures of the Rocky Mountain region and the Gospel peninsula were shown during the social hour. Mrs. F. M. Cryder and Mrs. Kibler received prizes in the contest that was conducted.

The hostesses served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Boosters Discuss President Truman

An open discussion on President Truman and his first six months in the White House was held Thursday evening when the members of the G. O. P. boosters club met at the home of Mrs. Harry Styers, Jr., South Pickaway street.

Following the discussion the group played bingo and prizes were awarded Mrs. Harold Vorhees, Mrs. Charles Winner, Jr. and Miss Leona Dumm.

Ideas on Making the Most of Sausage

1 pound BULK SAUSAGE	Makes 8 Servings SAUSAGE 'N' SQUASH Divide sausage into 8 patties. Place each patty in a cleaned half of acorn squash. Bake at 350° F. for 1½ hours or until done.	—or 8 Servings SAUSAGE WITH PANCAKES Make into patties. Place in skillet. Add 2 tablespoons water. Cover and simmer until water evaporates. Remove cover and brown. Serve each sausage patty between 2 pancakes.	—or 5 to 6 Servings SAUSAGE-APPLE PATTIES Grate two medium-sized, tart apples and combine with the sausage. Make into patties and cook as in preceding recipe, or fry slowly until done.
1 pound SAUSAGE LINKS	Makes 8 Servings SAUSAGE ONE-DISH MEAL Make mush from 1 cup corn meal, adding 1 cup shredded bran. Spread in bottom of casserole. Arrange links on top and break eggs between links. Cover and bake at 350° F.	—or 6 to 8 Servings SAUSAGE-BEAN CASSEROLE Brown links in skillet. Add chopped onion, green pepper, diced celery, can of tomato soup, ¼ cup ketchup, and simmer 30 minutes. Add 1 can kidney or lima beans and heat.	—or 8 Open SAUSAGE-CHEESE TOAST Cook sausage until done. Spread 2 tablespoons apple sauce on each slice of toast. Arrange 2 links on each. Place cheese strip on sausage. Roll until cheese is melted.
1 pound FRANKFURTERS	Makes 8 Servings FRANKS WITH STUFFING Cut large frank partly through lengthwise. Cook ¼ cup grated onion in fat. Add chopped parsley, 2 cups bread cubes and seasonings. Stuff frank. Wrap with bacon. Bake.	—or 8 Servings FRANK-STUFFED POTATOES Bake potatoes. Cut lengthwise, scoop out, mash with milk and drippings; season. Whip and re-fill shells. Place a frankfurter on top each. Heat frank and brown under broiler.	—or 8 Servings FRANKFURTER MEAL Make toast cups by pressing slices of bread, crust removed, into muffin pans. Bake. Fill with frankfurter and peas. Simmer 5 minutes. Serve alongside vegetable cups.
1 pound BOLOGNA OR SUMMER SAUSAGE	Makes 12 Servings SAUSAGE WITH NOODLES Place alternate layers of summer sausage and cooked noodles or spaghetti in baking dish. Season. Add enough tomato or mushroom soup to moisten. Cover with "buttered" crumbs. Brown in oven.	—or 8 Servings SCRAMBLED EGGS IN CUPS Have bologna sliced 3/16" thick. Heat slices in greased frying pan just long enough to "cup" them. Arrange on chop plate and fill with creamy scrambled eggs; if desired, creamed potatoes.	—or 8 Servings BOLOGNA-RICE CASSEROLE Dice bologna. Brown in fat with chopped onion. Add 2 cups cooked rice, salt and pepper; then 2 cups soup stock, 2 beaten eggs. Season. Place in greased casserole. Bake at 350° F. 20 minutes.

Stuart Burns Walling Married At Portsmouth

Former Resident Of City Is Wed To Mrs. Breece

Announcement was received in Circleville Thursday of the marriage in Portsmouth on Wednesday of Stuart Burns Walling and Mrs. Betty Stahley Breece.

Mr. Walling, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Percy Walling of this city, is a graduate of Circleville high school. He also attended Ohio State university and has been an employee of the Norfolk and Western Railroad at Portsmouth for the last 15 years.

They left immediately after the ceremony for Philadelphia where they will attend the Army-Navy game, Saturday.

Mrs. Walling's daughter, Patricia Dean Breece, was married last Saturday to Lt. Bernard R. McKinney at her home in Portsmouth.

Degree Work Plans Are Made By Star Grange Members

Plans for the exemplification of degree work and an exchange of Christmas gifts were made for the next meeting of the Star Grange to be held December 18, at the last meeting of that organization.

During this meeting the ladies' degree team conferred the first and second degrees on Mr. and Mrs. Warner Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Hatfield, Mrs. Alice Van Fossen and Mrs. Floral Kinch.

Mrs. Russell Timmons was elected juvenile matron and Mrs. Loring Stoor, assistant.

Members are asked to note change of date for the next meeting which has been postponed one week because of the State Grange session which will be held in Columbus the week of Dec. 10.

Francis Furness, newly appointed captain of the third and fourth degree team announced practice for the afternoon of December 18.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Loring Stoor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stoor and Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Long.

Two Reviews Given At Group H Meeting

Sixteen members of Group H of the Women's society of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. Sterling Croman, Washington township with Mrs. Forrest Croman as assisting hostess.

Mrs. D. A. Yates was in charge of the devotionals. Mrs. Franklin Kibler reviewed two articles from the "Church Woman" on Home Mission work, in rural Kentucky and at the academy for young Presbyterian people in the Rocky Mountain region.

It was decided to omit a meeting in December and Mrs. Yates invited the group to her home for the first meeting in January.

Travel pictures of the Rocky Mountain region and the Geoplin peninsula were shown during the social hour. Mrs. F. M. Cryder and Mrs. Kibler received prizes in the contest that was conducted.

The hostesses served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Boosters Discuss President Truman

An open discussion on President Truman and his first six months in the White House was held Thursday evening when the members of the G. O. P. boosters club met at the home of Mrs. Harry Styers, Jr., South Pickaway street.

Following the discussion the group played bingo and prizes were awarded Mrs. Harold Vorhees, Mrs. Charles Winner, Jr. and Miss Leona Dumm.

Mrs. Styers served refreshments at the close of the meeting to 12 members.

The largest flesh-eating land animals the world has ever known were the tyrannosaurs, or "tyrant reptiles," which stood about 19 feet high.

MRS. TROUTMAN IS ELECTED BY FAMILY CIRCLE

Mrs. Gladden Troutman was elected president of the Lutheran Family circle at the meeting of that organization held in the parish house, Thursday evening. Other officers elected for the ensuing year were Mrs. Russell Skaggs, vice president; Mrs. Edwin Peters, recording secretary; Mrs. Mary Stevens, reporting secretary and Mrs. Everett Peters, treasurer.

The meeting was preceded by a cooperative dinner that was served at 7:30 p. m. to between 80 and 90 persons. For the dinner the diningroom and table were decorated in Christmas colors with poinsettias and other Christmas greens. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Peters and Mrs. Henry Bartholomew formed the committee in charge of the diningroom.

A colored minstrel was presented after the business session. Those taking part were Mr. and Mrs. Gladden Troutman, Johnny Troutman, Herbert Hammel, Mrs. Delvin Smith, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. George Troutman and Jimmie Bartholomew.

The committee responsible for the program were Mrs. Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Young.

Mrs. Richter Is Hostess To Society

Mrs. Boyd Stout, vice president, was in charge of the business meeting of the ladies society of St. Paul's Evangelical church Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. E. Richter, Washington township.

A bazaar and market held in connection with the meeting netted $12.35 for the treasury.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Nolan Dunkle and consisted of readings by Mrs. D. E. Heffner and Mrs. Calvin Morehead; a vocal duet by Mrs. A. B. Glick and Mrs. Ralph DeLong and a poem by Mrs. Cliff Hedges.

Mrs. Berman Wertman, East Franklin street, will be hostess at the next meeting which will be a Christmas party and at which time the silent sisters names will be revealed.

Ideas on Making the Most of Sausage

1 pound BULK SAUSAGE

Makes 8 Servings SAUSAGE 'N' SQUASH

Divide sausage into 8 patties. Place each patty in a cleaned half of acorn squash. Bake at 350° F. for 1½ hours or until done.

—or 6 Servings SAUSAGE WITH PANCAKES

Make into patties. Place in skillet. Add 2 tablespoons water. Cover and simmer until water evaporates. Remove cover and cook as in preceding recipe, or try slowly until done.

—or 5 to 6 Servings SAUSAGE-APPLE PATTIES

Grate two medium-sized, tart apples and combine with the sausage. Make into patties and cook as in preceding recipe, or try slowly until done.

1 pound SAUSAGE LINKS

Makes 8 Servings SAUSAGE ONE-DISH MEAL

Make mush from 1 cup corn meal, adding 1 cup shredded bean. Spread in bottom of casserole. Arrange links on top and break eggs between links. Cover and bake at 350° F.

—or 6 to 8 Servings SAUSAGE-BEAN CASSEROLE

Brown links in skillet. Add chopped onion, green pepper, diced celery, can of tomato soup, ½ cup ketchup, and simmer 30 minutes. Add 1 can kidney or lima beans and heat.

—or 8 Open SAUSAGE-CHEESE TOAST

Cook sausage until done. Spread 2 tablespoons apple sauce on each slice of toast. Arrange 2 links on each. Place cheese strip on sausage. Roll until cheese is melted.

1 pound FRANKFURTERS

Makes 8 Servings FRANKS WITH STUFFING

Cut large frank partly through lengthwise. Cook ½ cup grated onion in fat. Add chopped parsley, 2 cups bread cubes and seasonings. Stuff frank. Wrap with bacon. Bake.

—or 8 Servings FRANK-STUFFED POTATOES

Bake potatoes. Cut lengthwise. Scoop out, mash with milk and drippings; season. Whip and re-fill shells. Place a frankfurter on top of each. Heat frank and brown under broiler.

—or 8 Servings FRANKFURTER MEAL

Make toast cups by pressing slices of bread, crust removed, into muffin pans. Bake. Fill with creamed corn and peas. Simmer frankie 5 minutes. Serve alongside vegetable cups.

1 pound BOLOGNA OR SUMMER SAUSAGE

Makes 12 Servings SAUSAGE WITH NOODLES

Place alternate layers of summer sausage and cooked noodles or spaghetti in baking dish. Season. Add enough tomato or mushroom soup to moisten. Cover with "buttered" crumbs. Brown in oven.

—or 8 Servings SCRAMBLED EGGS IN CUPS

Have bologna sliced 3/16" thick. Heat slices in greased fry-pan just long enough to "cup" them. Arrange on chop plate and fill with creamy scrambled eggs; if desired, creamed potatoes.

—or 8 Servings BOLOGNA-RICE CASSEROLE

Dice bologna. Brown in fat with chopped onion. Add 2 cups cooked rice, salt and pepper; then 2 cups soup stock. 2 beaten eggs. Season. Place in greased casserole. Bake at 350° F. 20 minutes.

Sausage making is one of our oldest arts. Fully as old, of course, is the art of preparing sausage for the table. There are many types of sausages. They offer almost unlimited possibilities to the home-maker who is interested in varying her menu and is always looking for ideas that are different and, at the same time, pleasing to the family palate. Above are just a few ideas for preparing a few of the sausages. They show what can be attained with a little ingenuity in the kitchen.

If the football season continues to go on and on and on Santa Claus may have to get someone to run interference for his reindeer if he plans to reach our chimney.

Statistics show the average man grows about four ounces of hair a year. Shucks, we know lot of guys whose bald spots grow faster than that.

A heavy dinner, according to a medical item, dulls the hearing temporarily. It sure does Dad's for he's sound asleep on the davenport before the first plate is rinsed.

Cop and Robber

PAUL M. MAENHOUDT, 43, above, lived a real life of "cops and robbers," according to Baltimore authorities who arrested him for burglary. Maenhoudt, a former Baltimore policeman, robbed places he was sworn to protect. He pleaded guilty to 61 charges of burglary and was sentenced to serve 21 years in the Maryland penitentiary. THE HAPPY JOURNEY

Helen Hayes will be heard in "The Happy Journey", a radio adaptation of Thornton Wilder's one act play, "The Happy Journey" to Trenton and Camden, on the Texton Theatre, Saturday. "The Happy Journey" is the story of an automobile ride from Newark to Camden by Ma Kirby, her husband and their two children. It is built around the conversations of the riders as they pass everyday landmarks as a hot dog stand, a gas station and numerous billboards.

WALLACE BEERY GUEST

Genial, big Wallace Beery will be Fred Allen's program guest Sunday. Allen will have a few questions to pose to the gravel-voiced actor concerning his new Hollywood leading lady. She's Margaret O'Brien who plays opposite Beery in his latest film, "Bad Bascomb."

RADIO NEWS NOTES

John J. Anthony, noted counselor on human relations, will be heard by thousands of new listeners when the "John J. Anthony" program expands to the full network from coast to coast, beginning Monday at 1:45 p. m. In his second decade of radio broadcasting, Mr. Anthony has grown to a point where his program will now be heard five times a week, Monday through Friday, over 277 stations.

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

THIS is the time of year when the phrase "mean temperature" seems to take on a double meaning. One way to prevent war, says Grandpappy Jenkins, is for everyone to permanently refrain from shooting. In some sections of the country it seems the weather man traded Indian Summer for a second helping of squaw Winter. The British, we read, have developed a motor car engine so small it can be kept in a three-inch box. The ambitious watchmaker soon may be able to work, after hours, as a garage mechanic. Zadok Dumkopt never has any

Annual Circleville Elks Lodge of Sorrow Will Be Held Sunday

TRIBUTE TO BE PAID TO EIGHT WHO HAVE DIED

Judge Charles Zimmerman Will Speak At Sunday Afternoon Service

Eight brothers who passed away in the past year have been added to the list of absent brothers to whom the Elks lodge of Circleville will do honor in the annual memorial service Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Elks home.

The eight Elks who died in the past year were the following: Mack W. Dowden, Brosius K. Clapp, Jerome H. Warner, Thomas R. Bell, Alfred Dresbach, Benton T. Hedges, Charles E. Roof and John H. Miller.

The Hon. Charles E. Zimmerman, judge of the Supreme Court of Ohio, will give the memorial address. Clydus Fausnaugh, exalted ruler, will preside, and Monroe J. Valentine, chaplain, will invoke the divine blessing. Music will be provided by Loring Wittich, violinist, and Abbe Mills Clarke, pianist.

The service will be open to the public. Widows of Elks, wives of Elks still in the service and friends and relatives of men honored are especially invited. The list of deceased members of the local lodge now totals 161.

Elks are asked to convene at the Elks home Friday at 8 p. m. to visit the Pickaway township home of Brother John H. Miller, who died Wednesday.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Lt. Walter Curtis Leist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gardner Leist of 120½ West Main street, has arrived home for a 10-day furlough after completing a four-months officer candidate course at the U. S. Army's Infantry school, Fort Benning, Ga., and receiving his commission as second lieutenant on Tuesday. He was inducted into the Army on June 16, 1945, and held the rank of private first class before being commissioned. A graduate of Circleville high school, he was president of the Hi-Y club there.

Discharge of five more men from this area at Army separation centers was reported Friday, while one soldier, T/5 Lee E. Hamlin, route 1 Mt. Sterling was reported to have arrived at Indiantown Gap, Pa., for reassignment, prior to which he will be given a furlough. Discharged at Camp Atterbury, Ind., was T/5 Donald D. Miller, route 1 Circleville, and at Indiantown Gap, T/5 Glenn H. Garrett.

LOAN COMPANY SIGNS TAKEN TOO LITERALLY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 30—The manager of the Guaranty Finance company has decided to adopt a less suggestive form of advertising.

Manager Carl Blankenship reported today someone threw a brick through the firm's window and took $25 from a basket bearing the sign, "you'll be surprised how easy it is to do business with us."

The theft occurred just a few days after another person who believes in signs also entered through a transom and stole $25 from the same basket. The container was labeled then, "we have the money, come and get it."

Blankenship said from now on his sign will read, "we have the money, but see us personally first."

Plans are being developed by 19 airlines in the United States to handle nearly one billion pounds of air cargo in the near future, according to Distribution Age.

B-24S ORDERED TO SPY ON JAPS

Bombers Had Instructions To Shoot If Attacked On November 26

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Ten days before Pearl Harbor, the Hawaiian army department was ordered to send out two B-24 Liberator bombers— with instruction to shoot if attacked—on aerial spying missions over Jap-held Truk and Jaluit islands.

The order, previously reported a special Army board of inquiry, was placed in evidence in more detail at the congressional Pearl Harbor investigation. The records submitted to the committee did not indicate whether the order ever was carried out.

The order was sent to Maj. Gen.

Walter C. Short, Army commander in Hawaii, on Nov. 26, 1941. It admonished him to "insure that both B-24 airplanes are fully equipped with gun ammunition." It also told Short to instruct the crews to "use all means in their power for self-preservation" if attacked.

Short was told to have the missions made simultaneously over Truk island in the Caroline group and Jaluit in the Marshalls.

"Information desired as to the number and location of naval vessels including submarines, airfields, guns, barracks and camps," the order said.

Pilots should be warned islands strongly fortified and manned. Photography and reconnaissance must be accomplished at high altitude and there must be no circling or remaining in the vicinity.

"Avoid orange (Japanese) aircraft by utilizing maximum altitude and speed. Instruct crews if attacked by planes to use all means in their power for self-preservation."

The planes were to leave from Honolulu.

"If distance from Wake and Jaluit to Moresby too great," the order added, "suggest one B-24 proceed from Wake to Jaluit and back to Wake, then Philippines by usual route photographing Ponape while enroute Moresby."

Moresby presumably referred to Port Moresby, New Guinea.

Grandpappy Jenkins says the Winter around these parts would be a lot more bearable if all those folks who escape to Florida could be forced to take their share of snow with them.

To clean dark blue or black felt, mix half a cup of strong black tea with one teaspoon of ammonia and clean with the mixture.
